

DICTAPHONE BARES RUM PLOT

$50,000 BRIBE GANG FOILED BY U. S. ATTORNEY

Dry Official Seizes Permit Fakers.

Bribes of $50,000 offered to federal officials, a suitcaseful of forged permits for $7,000 gallons of whiskey, the "drugstore price" of which would be $2,088,000, and the implication of a dozen prominent citizens of Chicago and New York were among the intricacies of an illicit booze ring unearthed here yesterday, according to a government agent, as the result of a raid on a room in the Great Northern hotel.

In the raid the counterfeit permits were seized and two men—alleged agents of the gang—were arrested. They had previously been trapped into incriminating statements through use of a dictograph at the receiving end of which sat two federal investigators. The men gave the names of William McCauley and Nathan Epstein. Both confessed.

Brin Told of Plot. They said they were agents of a clique of New York men who had undertaken to procure the release of the whisky from Chicago bonded warehouses for the owners, some of whom are well known to Chicagoans. The release was to have been obtained through the "fixing" of Col. A. W. Exum, chief of the intelligence unit of the revenue department, and Assistant District Attorney Harry L. Brin.

Several weeks ago Mr. Brin received word that two men from New York would like to "talk business with him," he said, while recounting the early stages of the investigation last night. At that time Mr. Brin was engaged in the gathering of evidence against Exum, Small and Mitchell of the Dearborn street police station—evidence which has since resulted in the indictment of the pair.

$50,000 Bribe Offered. Mr. Brin thought it might be a move of the part of friends of the two policemen, he said. He consented to an appointment. McCauley came to the district attorney's office the next day.

"I've got a proposition to make to you," Mr. Brin said. McCauley answered: "You can block any interference by prohibition agents on a shipment of liquor. We've got permits for the movement of $7,000 gallons. If you'll help us, it's worth $50,000 to you. We'll get the whisky and dispose of it in small lots, you guarantee the protection and the release."

"Fine," said Mr. Brin, thinking quickly. "How do I know you've got the permits and the money?" "Meet us tomorrow and we'll prove it to your satisfaction," said McCauley.

Gets "Friend" in on It. "I'll have to let a friend in on this—I can't fix it any other way, and that's the way I've handled all the other deals," said Mr. Brin.

"Is this friend O. K.—will you guarantee him?" said McCauley. "I will cheer on the level," said Mr. Brin. The friend was Col. Earnshaw. That night the colonel and an old journeyman to a certain room in a loop hotel. In the next room two federal agents, Patrick Roche and Joseph Tatro, were installed. A dictograph, attached to a chair in the first room, was connected to two receivers in the other. The trap set, the agents waited.

The Trap Is Sprung. Next day the trap was sprung. McCauley and Epstein met Mr. Brin and Col. Earnshaw in the room. Samples of the forged permits were produced. Details of the proposed "deal" were carefully arranged. The names of half a dozen prominent Chicagoans were given to the federal officers for reference.

Epstein, Mr. Brin said, was to bring all the permits from New York to Chicago. He was to turn them over to Mr. Brin. At the same time $25,000, one-half of Mr. Brin's share, was to be paid over. Mr. Brin was to have the names forged or placed on the permits and turn them back. He also was to guarantee protection from the prohibition authorities. Epstein and McCauley went away from there chuckling and quite satisfied.

Yesterday they returned from New York. They called Mr. Brin on the telephone. "We've got the permits here and (Continued on page 5, column 4.)

NIPPONESE CAN'T SOLVE U. S. GIRL, GETS A DIVORCE

The American woman is a mystery past understanding, Hiroshi Kawamura, a Japanese graduate of the Northwestern University Dental college told Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday.

"Last March my wife, who was Miss Mae Jones of Boston, left home to go to a dancing party and has not returned since," he said. "I do not know what has become of her."

The American girl and the Japanese were married in 1914 after a brief romance in Boston. Kawamura said he was of a studious nature, while his wife enjoyed dancing more than anything else. They quarreled and separated, but were reunited again and later came to Chicago, where he attended Northwestern university.

'SCARLET LETTER' SCENE IN CHURCH

Wedding Interrupted by Mother with Babe.

Waterbury, Conn., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—All Waterbury is buzzing with stories regarding the recent wedding which united two of the most prominent members of the city's "younger set."

The bridegroom was Edward J. Farrington, a Yale man, former lieutenant in the A. E. F., and a son of one of the richest men in Connecticut. The bride was Miss Margaret Hodson, member of a wealthy family.

The wedding was the most fashionable in the history of Waterbury, which is a city of 100,000. More than 1,000 invitations had been sent out. Additional hundreds crowded around the church, it having been whispered about the city that a sensation might be expected. Several private detectives were on guard.

Four Clergymen Take Part. Miss Hodson entered the church on the arm of her father, Frank J. Hodson, followed by eight bridesmaids. Four clergymen took part in the service. The wedding march having been played, the ritual was read, and Farrington and Miss Hodson clasped their hands ready to take the vow.

"Margaret Hodson, do you take Edward Joseph Farrington for your lawful wedded husband?" the clergyman intoned.

"I do," the girl murmured.

"Edward Joseph Farrington, do you take Margaret Hodson for your lawful wedded wife?"

"I do," Farrington replied.

"I now pronounce you man and wife."

Ceremony Is Interrupted. At this point, a woman—Mrs. Rodden—arose in her seat near the front rows and cried out:

"Stop!"

Miss Loretta Rodden, a daughter, arose, and held aloft a baby.

"We have something to say before this wedding goes on," said Mrs. Rodden. "This man (pointing to Farrington) is the father of this child—"

Ushers and detectives dashed to the side of Mrs. Rodden and her daughter. The ministers hesitated. The bride-to-be stood immobile. Mrs. Rodden brought the tense situation to an end by agreeing to leave.

Accomplish Their Purpose. "We have accomplished what we wanted to," the mother said. "We have exposed Edward Farrington."

The ceremony proceeded and Miss Hodson and Mr. Farrington left the church as man and wife. Mrs. Rodden later said she had demanded that Farrington marry the girl to give the baby a name, but that Farrington had denied parentage. Mr. Farrington would make no statement.

ROUMANIA KING REJECTS CROWN OF HUNGARY

BY LARRY RUE.

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—It is reported from Budapest that the King of Roumania has refused the Hungarian throne. Following the attempted coup d'etat by the former Emperor Karl Count Bethlen asked the Roumanian government to send a deputy to settle the question of the Hungarian throne.

When an emissary arrived at Budapest Hungary made the following demands: 1. A union of Hungary and Roumania under King Ferdinand, with each kingdom independent, but their relations to each other similar to those between Norway and Sweden in the nineteenth century. The kingdoms also to be bound by a defense alliance.

2. Hungary, when King Ferdinand was on the throne, to be governed by a palatine elected by the Hungarian parliament.

3. Roumania to restore six districts to Hungary—Maramaros, Ugocsa, Tassmar, Zilgely, Bihar, and Arad.

4. Transylvania, which was given to Roumania by the peace treaty, to be governed by an elected Hungarian prince.

CARVING CHINA MAY ENDANGER WORLD'S PEACE

Japanese Intrigues Bared by Wells.

BY H. G. WELLS.

[Best known writer in the world.] [Copyright, 1921, By The Chicago Tribune and the Press Publishing Company. (The New York World).]

ARTICLE IX.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—If we adopt as our guiding principle that China is "worth while," if we make up our minds—and it seems to me that the American public at least is making up its mind—that China is to bring itself up to date, and to reorganize itself as a great union of states under purely Chinese control, and that it is to be protected by mutual agreement among the powers from outside interference during the age of reorganization, then it is clear that all dreams of empire in China or any fragments of China on the part of any other power must cease.

This building up of a united, peaceful China by the conscious self-interest of the chief powers of the world is evidently, under present conditions, the only sane policy before the powers assembled at Washington. When an emissary arrived at Budapest Hungary made the following demands:

1. A union of Hungary and Roumania under King Ferdinand, with each kingdom independent, but their relations to each other similar to those between Norway and Sweden in the nineteenth century. The kingdoms also to be bound by a defense alliance.

Packing Wage Earners Vote Own Pay Slash

Forty thousand employees in the packing industry yesterday voluntarily voted a 10 per cent cut in wages. The reductions were arrived at under the provisions of the "shop representation" plan recently inaugurated by the packers. They go into effect on Nov. 28.

The employees affected are men and women in unskilled trades and all employees working by the hour or doing piecework. In actual dollars and cents the reductions will amount to about $2.80 a week for common laborers. No changes were made in the working agreements under which the men are allowed the eight hour day, time and one-half for overtime, and double time for Sunday.

Expect Others to Follow.

Although yesterday's action was confined to employees of Armour & Co., Swift & Co., and Wilson & Co., it is believed that within the next few days at least 125,000 employees in the industry will be affected. Workers in all big packing plants, with the exception of Morris & Co., have voted or will vote on the wage cuts.

It was the first time in the history of the packing industry that employees have agreed voluntarily that a wage cut was necessary and then agreed to its amount without threats of strike. The decision was reached after the packers had looked over the companies' books and investigated wages in other industries.

The packers regard the action as a vindication of the "shop representation" plan under which employers and employees get together and thrash out their disputes.

Action in Several Cities.

Employees of Armour & Co. from nine cities accepted the wage reductions through their representatives at the Chicago conference. Twenty-five thousand employees are affected. Employees of the Chicago plant of Swift & Co. at about the same time passed a vote of confidence in their employers and agreed to accept a wage cut of 10 per cent. This affects 7,000 employees. In the Wilson & Co. plant the employees voted merely to accept a wage reduction. Today they will agree as to its amount.

Although most of the employees at the conference were confident that all employees will accept the cuts made by their representatives there was some talk of a strike last night. In Omaha, it was announced by J. W. Burns, secretary of district council No. 5 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen that 5,000 members there would strike rather than accept the reductions.

Result of Two Day Conference.

The decision to cut wages on the part of the employees in the Armour plant came at the end of a two day conference, at which forty-eight men, twenty-four representing the employers and twenty-four the employees, thrashed out their difficulties around a table in the Armour plant at the stock yards.

Delegates from the employees after listening to reports made by investigators disclosing that wages for unskilled employees in allied industries were in most cases lower than theirs agreed that a cut was necessary. The matter was then turned over to a subcommittee of ten men, five from the packers and five from the employees.

They went out at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and after five hours' deliberation reported back that they had reached an agreement.

Everybody Seems Satisfied.

The delegates cheered A. S. Triplett, an employe representative from St. Joseph, Mo., who had been selected chairman, when he read the report.

"We are mighty well satisfied with the outcome of the conference," said Mr. Triplett following adjournment. "A wage reduction had to be made and we made it. We saved the cardinal principles, however, for the men."

U. S. WILL ASK WORLD TO O. K. ARMAMENT CUT

Won't Trade or Yield on Hughes' Plan.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—President Harding's long contemplated association of nations to preserve world peace was shadowed forth today in the course of momentous revelations of the policy the administration will pursue in the effort to achieve a real naval holiday and a new deal in the far east.

Here are the high points in the disclosures: 1. The United States will oppose with vigor the endeavor of Japan to obtain a greater proportion of capital ship tonnage than proposed in the Hughes plan, which is 60 per cent of the tonnage of either Great Britain or America, and more than Japan's present strength. Britain, it is said, will support America in this contention.

How to Stop Rivalry—Stop.

2. The American government stands immovable on the proposition that the world demands an end to competitive naval building; that the only way to stop it is to "stop," and that any effort by the powers concerned to disturb the relation of fighting ships laid down in the American proposal would constitute at once a reopening of competitive building.

3. The American delegation also will oppose any modification which would permit construction of one capital ship a year or any other replacement plan which would make the naval holiday "only a half holiday."

4. The administration is prepared to enter into an agreement with other powers to halt encroachments upon China and otherwise stabilize the peace of the far east—such an agreement as the British and Japanese have proposed as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which then would be dissolved.

Will Ask World to Join.

5. When an agreement on the reduction and limitation of naval armament is reached by the powers represented in this conference, all other countries will be invited to subscribe to it as a world charter of peace, proclaimed by an association of nations dedicated to the adoption of practical means to minimize the possibility of war.

6. No formal treaties requiring the consent of the senate are contemplated, the purpose being to achieve the object in each case by an exchange of diplomatic notes, though executive orders, and perhaps some legislation, would be required to carry out the naval holiday and scrapping of ships on the part of the United States.

Secretary Hughes, at the cabinet meeting this forenoon, made full reports of the progress of negotiations. It was the general opinion of the President and his official advisers that the prospects of success of the conference could not be better. Certain it is that the spirit manifested by the members of the American delegation could not be better.

Harmony in U. S. Group.

There is not the slightest trace of rivalry or jealousy among the American officials, and it was remarked in a high place today that if the negotiations should fail because of rivalries and jealousies the blame would not be centered in the American delegation, but elsewhere. Declaring that the success of the conference will yield glory enough for all, the President has set the example of self-abnegation and self-effacement.

Although the American proposals were worked out by the President and the American delegation, Mr. Harding has suggested that the plan should be called the Hughes plan.

The President takes the position that whatever agreements come out of the conference he would not hesitate to submit to the senate. The fact is, however, that the movement is in the direction of an understanding less formal than a treaty, ratification of which by the senate would be necessary.

national, is pronounced by the White House not worthy of serious consideration.

That the President still has in mind the association of nations for consultation on measures to preserve world peace has been disclosed by Mr. Harding himself in discussing with American officials and foreign envoys the results he hopes the conference will achieve.

He always makes it a point to observe that all the nations ought to be brought into any discussion effected on the reduction and limitation of armament.

Here is American Stand.

The position of the American delegation was thus set forth:

"The great evil we want to eradicate is competition in armaments. There can be no solution of the problem confronting the nations in this respect unless they deal drastically with such competition.

"The American plan is based on cessation of competitive building. Two alternatives were clear to the framers of the American plan from the outset. One was that competition must go on. The other was that competition be stopped and that naval armaments be limited on a basis of the existing naval strength of the powers.

"We could not see how we could do otherwise than to insist that the three naval powers their present strength. It would not have been equitable to reduce the strength of one and not of another, nor to increase the strength of one and not of another; and, besides, such increase would be in the direction of continuing instead of stopping competitive building.

Kept to Present Ratios.

"The ratio of tonnage embodied in the American plan is what we found the proportional strength of the British, American, and Japanese navies. The ratio was not based on the supposed needs of the nations. Every nation has a different conception of its naval needs. We found three powers with certain relations of existing strength which we sought to preserve.

"We took the capital ship as the yard stick of measurement and cut down the forces used for offensive warfare, preserving, for defensive purposes, the existing ratio of strength in the forces remaining.

"The plan would leave each nation a navy ample for defense, but with limited number of fighting ships which constitute aggressive weapons. The allowance of capital ships for Japan is regarded as extremely liberal. Japan is allowed more than her existing strength in capital ships.

No Bartering or Bickering.

"If no nation wants to change this provision and another nation wants some other concession, the first thing you will know competitive building will not be halted, but it will continue. You can't stop competition if one nation is allowed to go ahead of another. That is a sound position which undoubtedly is approved by public opinion not only in this but other countries."

It was stated, however, that there is room for discussion as to the larger allowance of auxiliary craft desired by Japan for defensive purposes. The prime objective is to halt the building of capital ships, but the American delegation is hospitable to suggestions as to the ratio of auxiliaries.

RUNS ON BANKS AND NEW WAR MENACE CHINA

Shanghai Calls It "Beginning of End."

BULLETIN.
PEKING, Nov. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Gen. Wu Pei-fu, the strongest militarist connected with the government, is now eighty miles from the capital, but offers to guarantee all foreign obligations in the event of a collapse of the government. In some quarters here a collapse is expected hourly.

PEKING, Nov. 18.—Two serious developments of the last few hours are threatening to drive the weak Peking government into a complete collapse, and they give vital point to the pleas of the Chinese delegates at Washington.

President Sun Yat Sen of the Canton government is reported to have started a movement against the north, he having progressed from Wuchow to Kweilin in Kwangsi province. It will be some time, however, before he comes in contact with the northern forces. Hankow reports persistent rumors in foreign circles of a possibility of Dr. Sun being joined by Wu Pei-fu, the liberal northern militarist who is now in control of central China. Should that happen, it would mean the almost certain defeat of the northern government.

Run on Banks.
The other serious developments are runs on the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications, both in Peking and Tientsin, which are now proceeding. The movement apparently started from rumors that the banks were not able to meet their obligations following their refusal to honor certain overdrafts of the ministry of finance. The officials of the banks say they are fully protected and have sufficient funds to meet the demands, the main demand being the redemption of bank notes.

Similar runs are reported from Hankow, Kluikang, and Wuhu. Silver is being received from Shanghai banks, both foreign and Chinese, to alleviate the situation. Shanghai banking circles have feared a financial crisis for some time, however, but expected it to come from another source.

Wave of Speculation.
There has been an unprecedented forming of exchanges of all kinds and a wave of speculative transactions in that city for the past few months. The speculation, which has made heavy demands on banking institutions, particularly the Chinese.

While no radical movement has developed as yet in Shanghai, the Chinese bankers' association has issued a notice to its members requesting them to prohibit their employees from dabbling in exchanges or having dealings with other bankers.

LEAGUE COUNCIL AVERTS NEW WAR IN THE BALKANS

PARIS, Nov. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—The case of Jugoslavia before the council of the league of nations came to a sudden end this afternoon when Great Britain withdrew the charges of covenant breaking which had been lodged against the Jugoslavs on the ground that they had failed to live up to the agreement relative to the Albanian boundaries, as fixed by the council of ambassadors.

Mata Bockovich completed his reply to the charges for Jugoslavia in detail, closing with the statement that his country would accept the frontiers fixed by the ambassadors' council and would try to live on friendly terms with Albania. H. A. L. Fisher, representing Great Britain, said that under the circumstances it would not be necessary for the council to examine the case in detail and that, on behalf of the British government, he would withdraw the charges of covenant breaking.

The settlement of the case will be signed in the form of a protocol tomorrow.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18.—The banking situation in Shanghai is stable. The Chinese Bankers' association has pledged its support to its local branches.

The consortium legation has been approached by the ministry of finance in an attempt to have them authorize the release of several million taels (the normal value of a tael is $.825) now in the status of a surplus, according to a Peking report.

The legation refused the request, expressing the opinion that it would be a useless waste of good money.

The general feeling in legation quarters is that this is the beginning of the end for the present Peking government. This view is also shared by many well informed Chinese.

Filipino Bank Manager Freed of Serious Charge

Two cases of alleged irregularities against him were dismissed, it having been found that they occurred before he was made a member of the board of the bank.

JAPAN RETICENT ON CHINA'S NEW BILL OF RIGHTS

Full Committee Is to Study It Today.
BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—China's bill of rights, or the tenets which she asks the conference powers to accept as guiding all future relations with that republic, will be discussed in executive session tomorrow morning by the full committee of delegates. Ambassadors Shidehara will present the Japanese viewpoint.

Japan's attitude was indicated tonight by Prince Tokugawa.

"I think our people are desirous of doing all they can for the benefit of China," he said, "but they do not wish to do anything disadvantageous to Japan."

Under the Chinese proposals Japan would be forced to jeopardize all the treaties and legal rights embodied in the twenty-one demands. Point four is aimed at the Shantung and Manchuria treaties signed since the war. It seems highly improbable, under the prince's statement, that Japan would consent to this. Therefore, reservations or amendments must be offered.

Talk of Denial, Secret Offer.

It was reported tonight that Japan has approached China outside the conference asking for a guarantee that her access to raw materials will not be closed. This is denied, and is probably untrue, as such a guarantee by the Peking government would mean little.

Prince Tokugawa was asked if China's proposals had been accepted "in principle."

"On that I think the time has not arrived for us to say," he replied. "We are considering the subject in a spirit friendly to China. It is such an important question."

"Will you have any other proposals on China to offer tomorrow?"

"None whatever."

"Will you consider naval disarmament aside from the Chinese question?"

"I think so."

"Have you taken up the question of the Pacific fortifications of America and Japan?"

"We are considering that question at present."

Won't Discuss Shantung Rumor.

"Is it true that you have agreed to withdraw from Shantung unconditionally?"

"We will not discuss that now."

"Are you prepared to make a public statement on the Chinese question?"

"I cannot say when it will be made."

"What about your attitude on the open door?"

"We entirely agree in the policy of the open door for China."

"Do you see any contradiction between that policy and the claim of special interests set up by Japan under the Lansing-Ishih agreement?"

"I see no contradiction."

"What are Japan's special interests in China?"

There was no reply to this, and as the questioning was getting warm the prince's advisers suggested that he withdraw.

Chinese for Definite Action.

The Chinese will make every effort to get this conference to agree to set up some kind of a commission, or make arrangements for other conferences, at intervals of one or two years, to check up on the agreements which are expected to be made here.

China will not ask for the abrogation of treaties made before the war or which were legalized by the Chinese government. The delegation will insist that Manchuria, Mongolia, and Tibet are part of the Chinese republic.

Great Britain is willing to give up Wei-Hai-Wei—the port in Shantung—regarding Hongkong as having a separate status. British policy aims at aiding the rehabilitation of China in every possible way. Extra territorial rights will be given up when China shows itself able to protect British citizens.

CITY OFFICIALS PONDERING OVER LOW BONDS BID

City Controller George F. Harding continued yesterday to hold under advisement the conditional offer of $8.57 cents on the dollar made by a New York syndicate for the city's $3,000,000 deficit bond issue.

I may not make my decision for several days," Mr. Harding said. "I consider that the offer, under the circumstances, is a fairly good one."

The city administration, aware that no favorable opinion on the validity of the bonds can be obtained from Wood & Oakley, local expert attorneys on municipal bonds, is believed to be awaiting word from New York, where Attorney John C. Thompson has been asked for an opinion. Unless the opinion is favorable the $8.57 bid—the only one offered—will be withdrawn.

City officials refused yesterday to discuss the possibility that the city traction fund, from which money was taken to pay off the 1920 deficit, the deficit bonds being placed in the fund as security, may be impaired if the bonds are not sold. The possibility, however, is causing the city fiscal officers worry.

Swift Justice for Youth Who Slew His Parents

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 18.—Richard Champlain, 22, who last night confessed he had shot and killed his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian B. Champlain, was sentenced to life imprisonment following his plea of guilty asked for an opinion. Unless the opinion is favorable the $8.57 bid—the only one offered—will be withdrawn.

Young Champlain in his confession, made at the behest of his 19 year old sweetheart, Clara A. Humpert, a school teacher, declared a quarrel with his parents over their objections to his courtship, led to the crime. They objected, he said, because of differences in religious beliefs of the Champlain and Humpert families.

"Is it true that you have agreed to withdraw from Shantung unconditionally?"

"We will not discuss that now."

"Are you prepared to make a public statement on the Chinese question?"

"I cannot say when it will be made."

"What about your attitude on the open door?"

"We entirely agree in the policy of the open door for China."

"Do you see any contradiction between that policy and the claim of special interests set up by Japan under the Lansing-Ishih agreement?"

"I see no contradiction."

"What are Japan's special interests in China?"

There was no reply to this, and as the questioning was getting warm the prince's advisers suggested that he withdraw.

CARVING CHINA MAY ENDANGER WORLD'S PEACE

Japanese Intrigues Are Bared by Wells.

disentangle China and form a self-denying ordinance of all the powers concerned to leave her alone while she reconstructs. I submit that even Japan, most intent of all the chess players, will do best to fall in line with such a plan.

Would a world covenant to protect China from aggression and to concede her the progressive abolition of extra-territorial privileges and the same unlimited rights over her own railways and soil and revenue that are enjoyed by the Americans and Japanese over theirs be any serious harm to Japan? Would it not release Japan from her imitative career as a pseudo-Britain or a pseudo-Germany and enable her to get on with her own proper business, which is to be, to the fullest, completest, and richest extent, Japan?

Japan Wants Safety.

For what, after all, is it that Japan wants? She wants safety, she declares—just as France wants safety. She wants safety to be Japan, just as France wants safety to be France, and England wants safety to be England. And she makes these declarations with considerable justification. For 400 years she believed she had that safety and we must admit she was the least dangerous state in the whole world. For 300 years Japan was no foreign war; she was a peaceful, self-contained hermit. It was American enterprise that dragged her out of her seclusion and fear of Europe that drove her to the practices of modern imperialism. They are not natural Japanese practices. She fought China and grabbed Korea because otherwise Russia would have held it like a pistol at her throat; she fought Russia because otherwise Russia would have held Manchuria and Port Arthur against her; she fought in the great war to oust Germany from Shantung.

Tokio's Policy in China.

She is now pursuing an entirely "European" policy in China, intruding to get a free hand in Manchuria and eastern Siberia, scheming for concessions, privileges, and the creation of obedient puppet governments in a dismembered China, planning to divert the natural resources of China to her own use, primarily because she fears that otherwise these things will be done by rival powers and she will be cut off from trade, from raw materials and all prosperity, until at last when she is sufficiently starved and enfeebled she will be attacked and Indiaized.

These are reasonable, honorable fears. They oblige her to keep armed and aggressive; here is an "offensive defense." There is no other way of escape. India has been a permanent victim of world powers to put an end forever to the headlong scramble for Asia that began a century and a half ago in India between the French and English, to recognize frankly and to put it upon record that that phase of history has closed, and to provide some effective means of restoration now and the prevention of fresh aggressions in the future.

NAVAL OFFICERS OPPOSING U. S. PLANS WILL BE PUNISHED

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Great displeasure has been incurred in high official quarters in Washington over the activities of certain naval officers of the United States who have been trying to decry the efforts of the government to effect a limitation of naval armaments.

Some prominent officers of the navy are involved in the situation and there is a possibility that reprimands may be administered, unless there is a prompt cessation of their activities.

It is known that there is a propaganda conducted by some officers of the navy who look with disfavor on the sweeping cuts which the American delegation, with the approval of President Harding, has proposed to make in the American naval building program.

It is not believed that the President will tolerate any effort by naval officers to discredit the program of the American government, which is regarded by the executive branch of the government as being in complete accord with public opinion generally, not only in this country but abroad.

In conversations at their clubs and elsewhere certain officers of the navy have been rather free, even to the point of their criticism, not only of the American project as presented by Secretary Hughes, but in their comments on the whole general international project.

dreeding modern war. We have to reckon with that. When we ask Japan to release China we ask for something much against Japanese habits of thought. Her dominant military note is both to ancient traditions and recent experience.

Japan had most of the fun and little of the bitterness of the great war and her people may conceivably have a lighter attitude toward aggressive war than any European nation. But if the alternatives presented to her were, on the one hand, disarmament and a self-denying ordinance of the powers in relation to China, and on the other war against the other chief powers of the world, I doubt if the patriotism of even the most war loving Japanese would not outbalance his war lust. And I cannot imagine any other permanent settlement of the Pacific situation except a self-denying ordinance to which Japan, America, and the European powers can ever possibly agree.

Where Japs Would Benefit.

New Japan, disarmed and pledged and self-restrained by treaties and associations against aggression on the mainland of Asia, would nevertheless reap enormous benefits in the liberation of China. Given that and reasonable treaties, she can do well without armaments. Her geographical position would make her naturally and properly the first merchant and the first customer of a renaissance China. She would have the first bid for all the coal and ore and foodstuffs she needed. American goods and European goods would have to come past her over thousands of miles of sea. Chinese goods that did not come to her would go elsewhere up a steep hill of freight charges.

It is a preposterous imagination that China would refuse to sell to her nearest and best customer. Moreover, Japan's artistic and literary culture, at once so distinctive and so sympathetic with that of China, would receive enormous stimulation as it had done in the past, by a Chinese revival.

Could Keep In Van of Nations.

Japan would be able to keep in the van of nations, not by that headlong imitation and adoption of European devices into which circumstances have forced her hitherto, but by a natural and orderly development of her own idiosyncrasies in the face of the enhanced power that modern resources supply. An association of Japan with

GANG OF YOUTHS ADMITS SCORES OF CRIMES HERE

Murders, Thefts, Holdups
Boast of Sextet.

Six men, the oldest of them 27, sat in the detective bureau yesterday and told a story of wholesale crime which stamped them as one of the most brazen, vicious band of criminals captured since the days of the "car barn bandits."

Smiling, laughing, joking, six youthful criminals, the oldest 27, last night confessed to scores of crimes, including a murder, to the astonished police. The photographer caught them in the midst of their confessions. From left to right they are: Ira Perry Jr., son of the manufacturer of the Perry automobile lock; Andrew Baillie, Walter Witt, Joseph Shean, the leader, and Edward Cronk Jr., semi-pro baseball player. Harold Sullivan, the sixth, covered his face and refused to be photographed.

Bag of Other Crimes.
They bragged of having held up fifty or more Standard Oil company and Sinclair Oil company filling stations.

They laughed as they told of scores of street holdups, numbering as many as twenty-four in one night.

And every night before they started out to rob, they said, they stole another high powered automobile.

The six men are:

Joseph Shean, 27, 6743 Newland avenue, who was shot and captured last Monday night when he attempted to rob a filling station at Western and Addison avenues.

Andrew Baillie, 22, 1483 Belmont avenue, semi-professional ball player and a chauffeur for the Surf Tuxedo company.

Harold Sullivan, 24, 1456 Farragut avenue.

Arrests Follow Shooting.
It was through the arrest of Shean that the gang was rounded up. In the filling station holdup, Patrolman James McGrath happened to be in the place and shot Shean, the bullet passing through his arm, striking a safe and glancing, penetrated Manager Frank's abdomen. The wound later causing the manager's death.

The roundup was made by Lieutenants Axel Jensen and David Schwartz, and Sergeants John Ryan, Hugh McCarthy, John Hardy, George Laurell, Joseph "Kalkack," William Leiber, Eugene Piggott, and Joseph McNamara.

Shean Admits Loberg Killing.
It was Shean who confessed he killed Jeweler Loberg. Cronk was with him, he said, and was shot in the breast by Loberg. Shean admitted 40 holdups, Perry as many as Sullivan, 40, Baillie, 25; Witt, 15; and Cronk, 10.

Shean, in his confession of the shooting of Loberg, told how Cronk was wounded in a revolver battle in the store and the story of their escape.

"We went into the store at 2556 Milwaukee avenue in the afternoon," Shean said. "Cronk told the jeweler to stick up his hands."

"I started back to the safe. Cronk was supposed to have Loberg covered, but the jeweler grabbed a gun and fired. Cronk fell with a bullet in his breast. I shot Loberg and he dropped. I pulled Cronk to his feet and we ran out of the store."

Tells Mother of Crime.
He had to borrow a dime to ride to the end of the Clark and Devon line. I loaded him into a truck and took him to his home. His mother took him in and cared for him, even though he told her truthfully how he had been shot.

Cronk showed where Loberg's bullet had struck him. "It's still in there," he told the police.

Perry and Sullivan, according to the police, confessed to robbing the "Lovers' Lane" jewelry store, 2310 Milwaukee avenue, of $15,000 in jewelry on Jan. 4, 1921. The loot was sold for $2,800, they said.

They told also of robbing the store of Christian Hansen, 3557 Fullerton avenue, of $4,700 in jewelry.

Thrilling Escape Retold.
"Perry and I held up a Sinclair station at 47th street and Western avenue," Shean confessed. "I was inside when a policeman started shooting at Perry. I ran out and got into the car and we shot away with bullets whizzing after us. The policeman followed us."

"At Oakley avenue and the Baltimore and Ohio tracks, a freight train was in the way. We smashed through the gate, turned and raced the train up the track until we got a little ahead of it. Then shot in front of the engine and got away. The engine didn't miss us a foot."

"There has not been such a band since the days of the car barn bandits," said Chief of Detectives Hughes last night. "It will be days before we finish checking up on the robberies and holdups they have committed. They have already told of more than 100 filling station holdups, about 20 jewelry stores robbed, 100 automobiles stolen and dozens of street stickups."

Quizzed on Other Murders.
We are questioning Shean, Perry, Baillie, and Sullivan, particularly concerning the shooting of Howard B. Shales in "Lovers' Lane" last year, the murder of Cashier Christensen in the View, and the shooting of George Harkness of the Morton Grove bank on Nov. 2.

Shean will be charged with the murder of Loberg. In addition, a coroner's jury recommended that he and Baillie be held for the fatal shooting of Manager Frank of the filling station at the holdup last Monday. "Even though the bullet which killed him was fired by the policeman, it was caused by the holdup, and therefore the bandits are responsible for the death," the coroner held.

SCHWAB, GARY UPHOLD HUGHES' ARMAMENT PLAN

Steel Chiefs Assure Foch of Help.

New York, Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Marshall Foch, as the guest of the American Iron and Steel Institute, tonight heard the cause of armament limitation praised by the very men who have grown rich partly through the manufacture of armament.

Both E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem corporation, were speakers.

Mr. Schwab particularly pledged his support to the Harding-Hughes disarmament project. He mentioned that during the war the steel industry furnished for war purposes almost 50,000,000 tons of steel.

Cites Record of Firm.
"I am at the head of the largest war materials manufacturing works in the world," he continued. "The ship yards of my company build more naval ships than are built in any other yards under one management in America."

"But I have been thrilled beyond expression, as has every good American, by the brilliant and statesmanlike speech made before the conference by Secretary Hughes."

"Carrying out of that plan may involve great monetary losses in some quarters, but such a thing as financial loss can be of no consideration when compared to the inestimable boon to mankind involved in the realization of that magnificent plan."

"What red-blooded American would not, indeed, make any sacrifice if the burden of armament could be lifted from the shoulders of humanity?"

"If the armed protection of our country is necessary, the establishment of which I am the head will devote itself with all its energy to providing means for protection of this country's homes and families."

"But I say to you from the bottom of my heart that if the statesmen now assembling in Washington should find it possible to bring about disarmament and permanent peace, gladly would I see the war making machinery of the Bethlehem Steel corporation sunk to the bottom of the ocean."

Gary Wants Real Treaty.
Mr. Gary upheld the purpose of the Washington conference to reduce armament and burden on the taxpayers, and went further by urging a treaty which would prevent future wars. Business in this country is improving, he said, and added that the cessation of warship construction would not affect the steel industry adversely.

"For the conference to fail," Mr. Gary said, "is unthinkable. Those responsible for such a failure would be repudiated and condemned forever."

No claim for personal or individual advantage not based on the principles of right and justice, in the opinion of the majority, would be entertained."

JAPAN TO GAIN IN AIR WHAT HUGHES PLAN CUTS OFF IN SHIPS

Taxes in Money, Budget on Gold Basis.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Facing a limitation of surface naval craft and submarines, Japan is preparing for aerial warfare on an unprecedented scale.

This is the secret of Japan's proposal to be prepared to approximate the tonnage of Great Britain or America in "a certain type of vessel for defensive purposes." That type of ship, it was disclosed tonight, is the airplane carrier.

The Hughes plan allows 30,000 tons of airplane carriers to each of the American and British navies and 48,000 tons to Japan. Admiral Kato will ask the conference to allot nearly 90,000 tons of this strange type of ship with a flat roof, one of which is capable of carrying hundreds of airplanes.

There is no limitation on the construction of naval aircraft in some quarters, but such a thing as financial loss can be of no consideration when compared to the inestimable boon to mankind involved in the realization of that magnificent plan."

"What red-blooded American would not, indeed, make any sacrifice if the burden of armament could be lifted from the shoulders of humanity?"

OLD CAPITALISM BACK WITH BANK TO SAVE RUSSIA

Taxes in Money, Budget on Gold Basis.

MOSCOW, Nov. 18.—[By the Associated Press.]—A new state bank was opened today in Moscow in the premises of the old Union bank, with a full staff of old-time banking officials and clerks. It so happened that the date was exactly four years from that on which the soviet government nationalized and took over all the Russian banks.

Notices are displayed on all the walls of the new bank that 3 per cent interest will be paid on current accounts and 5 per cent on time deposits.

Return of Capitalism.
There was no ceremony at the opening, which marks a decided step in the changed economic policy, as the bank advises that it will make loans to corporations and individuals, deal in exchange, and handle accounts, guaranteeing them free from confiscation by the government, which desires to restore capitalistic methods in its effort to effect economic reconstruction. Branch banks will be opened shortly in other commercial centers.

Excise taxes are being revived on matches, beer, tea, coffee, and mineral waters. The customs schedule now being prepared probably will be put into force Jan. 1.

Gold Ruble Basis.
The buying power of the pre-war gold ruble has been agreed as the standard on which soviet budgets hereafter are to be drawn. Every two months the ratio between the gold ruble and the paper ruble is to be readjusted so as to equalize salaries and avoid absurdities existing in many departments where the monthly salaries, fixed long ago, are insufficient to buy the food of an employe for a single day.

INDIANA CLOSES DISTILLERY OF GEORGE REMUS

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—W. P. Scullib & Co., distillers at Lawrenceburg, Ind., now owned by George Remus, former Chicago lawyer, and his associates, was put out of business when its license was revoked today by Bert Morgan, Indiana prohibition director, in an official order filed here.

Charges filed with Morgan alleged the distilling concern since its purchase by Remus, permitted liquor to be withdrawn in large quantities without legal permits, failed to keep records of vendors' permits, and allowed shipments of liquor by truck concerns said to be controlled by the same persons owning the distillery. It developed during a hearing before Morgan that the distillery owners also controlled a large wholesale drug concern at Cincinnati, which, it is alleged, had withdrawn large quantities of whiskey from the distillery on alleged drug permits.

BRITAIN STOPS WORK ON FOUR NEW WARSHIPS

End of All Capital Sea Fighters Seen.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright, 1921, By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Great Britain has shown its good faith in connection with naval disarmament by issuing orders to cease all work on the four new "super-Hood" warships. The admiral announced this morning that this order had been issued and Tribune correspondents on the Clyde and Tyne announced that it was obeyed immediately, all work ceasing tonight.

Beardmore & Co. have also ordered the fires drawn tomorrow morning at Parkston forge, which had just started work on the steel for the ships.

The contract price of each of these ships was $8,000,000 (roughly $32,000,000), and as the contracts all contained cancellation clauses the British taxpayers save almost $32,000,000 ($128,000,000).

Where Ships Were to Be Built.
The building districts affected are the Clyde and Tyne. One ship each was being built by John Brown & Sons, Clydebank; the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering company, Govan; William Beardmore & Son, and Swan Hunter and Wigham Richardson, Tyne-side.

The announcement naturally caused consternation in these districts where the workers had been looking forward to three years of steady employment. Already agitation has been started to compel the government to grant some form of compensation to the men thrown out of work. It is suggested that special pay be provided for them until other work is found or until they are provided for by the government.

Admiral Sir Percy Scott declared today that "if the ships had been built they would have been no good. One bomb would sink any of them."

Doubts Immediate Stoppage.
The London Telegraph states that if it is informed the admiralty order regarding the construction of the four warships does not necessarily mean an immediate cessation of work on the "super-Hoods," but it certainly portends cessation in the near future. Regarding the labor aspects, an official of the Amalgamated Engineers' union points out that the suspension of the contracts does not mean that a large number of workers will be made idle.

There will be a delay in the employment of thousands who are now expecting to be engaged when the work reaches a stage when their labor is required.

IMMIGRANT GIRL BARES PITFALLS OF ELLIS ISLAND

Pitfalls that await the immigrant girl at Ellis island, as well as humiliation and suffering at the hands of some employees, were shown yesterday in a petition filed in the Hammond, Ind., Superior court by Mary Romeovitch, 16 years old, from Serbia, asking the annulment of her marriage to R. Vilech.

The girl arrived at Ellis island last March. Her brother, employed in Gary, was to have met her. For some reason he could not be there. But she met Vilech.

"He told me he had a home like a palace in Pennsylvania," the girl says. "I did not hear from my brother and could get no word from him. I was terribly afraid to be alone in the new country. Vilech told me if I would marry him he would give me security and comfort. I believed him, but after the wedding he held me a prisoner for weeks in a place little better than a hut."

The girl finally escaped and made her way to Gary, where she found her brother.

FRENCH SUPPORT U.S. ON DIVERS AS AGAINST BRITAIN

Also Hint 'Guarantees' on Land Will Be Asked.

BY HENRY WALES.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Aligning herself beside the United States, France today took issue with Great Britain regarding further limitation of submarines.

Shifting to land armaments, France intimated that if she were offered suitable guarantees from the other great powers, she would be willing to reduce her army materially.

Premier Aristide Briand, who enunciated France's policy to newspaper correspondents, demanded a new entente cordiale—for the Pacific and far east—which might eventually be stretched to the Rhine and to Russia.

M. Briand first announced that he would deliver a forty-five minute speech at the plenary session of the conference Monday morning.

Foch to Attend Session.
Marshal Foch will be present as a military expert at Monday's session, and although he is not down for an address, it is understood that congress, which will occupy the balcony of Continental Memorial hall, will call on him to speak.

In exposing his government's view point to journalists this evening, M. Briand did not overlook the opportunity to rap the British counter proposals to Secretary Hughes' plan.

France came to Washington eager to effect an easement from the British domination that had weighed on her in all conference and council meetings held in Europe since the armistice.

"Mr. Balfour's arguments regarding England's necessities for light warships apply equally to France," M. Briand said. "Our coast line touches three seas," he continued. "We have many colonies, far removed, on which we rely for foodstuffs. The cargo boats which carry us our supplies must be protected."

Weighing his words as he took direct issue with Great Britain on the submarine problem, M. Briand said: "The submarine is the weapon of the weak. We cannot take the same view about submarines as the British, because it is impossible to foresee the exact character of future naval warfare. Consequently, France cannot make the engagements regarding submarines that the British suggest."

Talk of Mysterious Weapons.
M. Briand's hint that naval operations in the next war may be revolutionized by introduction of new combat factors aroused considerable interest, as this is not the first time that mysterious inventions making present types of warships obsolete, have been mentioned in conference circles.

The statement also was significant in view of cable reports from Paris that the naval committee of the French senate has just asked credits for construction of twenty-four new submarines of an improved type.

Regarding the far east problems, M. Briand stated that principles establishing a peaceful atmosphere there should be agreed on at this conference.

JAPAN LAUNCHES GIANT KAGA; U.S., BRITAIN ABSENT

Battleship Among Those Hughes' Plan Junks.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
TOKIO, Nov. 18.—An incident exciting comment in Japan was the absence of American and British naval attaches at the launching today of the giant battleship Kaga at Kobe, although the attaches of all other nations were present. A second incident was the utter absence at the banquet following the launching of any reference to Secretary of State Hughes' proposal to scrap the Kaga.

Though the reaction for a stronger fleet is increasing, Admiral Yataushiro, in a lengthy signed article in this morning's Asahi, praised both the American proposal and Admiral Kato's acceptance, saying that a six-four fleet was ample for Japan's defense. Coming from the minister of the navy in the bureaucratic Okuma cabinet, his statement is accepted as evidence that the ablest statesmen of the old school are determined not to let the private views of the shipbuilders persuade Japan to oppose the reduction substantially.

Japan Must Economize.

Gov. Inouye of the Bank of Japan, substituting for the premier at the annual meeting of the Kwansai bankers at Osaka, said that Japan must come to its senses. Citing the import excesses and other distressing features, he demanded that the nation stretch or face serious consequences. Mr. Takahashi, when finance minister, had promised to make the address, but his acceptance of the premiership prevented, and Mr. Inouye's speech is accepted as the program determined on by the government, which means radical curtailments and the forecasting of the successful outcome of the Washington conference.

Regarding China, the consensus of opinion is that Japan will agree to all reasonable proposals, but it will insist upon a maintenance of the status quo in Manchuria, gained by the twenty-one demands.

The conservative Yumuri says that a break in the Anglo-Japanese alliance necessarily will make it impossible for Japan to remove all sources of dispute in a drastic manner and on its own initiative.

Rights in Manchuria.

The Japanese view of China's pronouncement at Washington appears as reported from the delegates in Washington. Japan wishes special rights in Manchuria and also a continuance of extra-territoriality, but otherwise it is disposed to accept any adjustment agreeable to the other powers.

Far more interest here centers on the question of fortifications. Capt. Hara, an expert of the navy department, conferred with the foreign minister and bureau chiefs, explaining to Mr. Uchida the navy's willingness to cancel its plans for the Bonin Islands and the defense arranged for the Pescadores and also Keelung, but he was silent on the Loo Chooes.

Want U. S. Muzzled.

These concessions are conditioned on the dismantling of the fortifications in the Philippines, foregoing the defense of Guam and Midway, and abandoning the bases at Cavite and Pearl Harbor.

The effect of the American proposals for naval disarmament was more apparent today, the stocks of armament and military supplies and shipping registering heavy slumps, the majority of offers going begging. The Osaka exchange registered heavy drops yesterday, due to the circulation of a false report that Prince Yamagata was dead.

Porter, chief of the Chicago branch of the United States secret service, is shown in this picture with a camera used for reproducing $5 and $10 federal reserve notes, seized with its owner, Henry J. ULSTER-LONDON PARLEY REOPENS IN COMING WEEK

Belfast Cabinet Is to Meet, Too.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
LONDON, Nov. 18.—There was no further progress in the Irish negotiations today, but it is expected that discussions between the British and Ulsterites will be resumed next week.

Sir James Craig is now willing to hold informal discussions, as an individual, with Prime Minister Lloyd George and possibly even with Arthur Griffith. On account of a sudden attack of influenza today he was not able to go to Thiepval, France, to unveil a memorial to the Ulster division, so he will be in London over the week end and, if he is not too ill, he will be available for a conference.

Renewal of Parley.

It is likely, however, that the meetings will be delayed until next week, as Mr. Lloyd George wishes to return to Bournemouth tomorrow and several members of the Irish delegation, including Michael Collins, are going to Dublin tonight. It is also said that the Ulster cabinet is about to be summoned to reassemble in London next week.

Hint of War.

DUBLIN, Nov. 18.—The Irish Bulletin today publishes the text of an alleged secret circular issued from the divisional commissioner of the Royal Irish constabulary at Belfast. It is dated Nov. 9 and addressed to "the commissioners, all county inspectors, and all county commandants." It says that owing to the growth of unauthorized Loyalist defense forces the government is considering the desirability of forming these unauthorized forces into regular military units on the territorial basis.

The force is intended as a military force and is to be called out only in a grave emergency. The document adds that "if it is necessary to form this force it will have to be done very shortly."

BUT $180,000 OF $7,000,000 PAID STEWART HEIRESS

Leaves Fight for Millions to Father-in-Law.

While numerous persons are concerning themselves over the early history of Terence O'Brien of Nashua, N. H., to determine if it were he who, after getting the idea from the mechanism of a horse clipping instrument, invented the speedometer and changed his name to J. K. Stewart, Mrs. Marion Stewart Honeyman, heir to the $7,000,000 estate of J. K. Stewart, is remaining in the background and leaving to her father-in-law, Robert Honeyman Sr., and his associate attorneys the task of obtaining possession of the estate.

Two brothers and a sister of Terence O'Brien—John H. O'Brien, David W. O'Brien, and Catherine O'Brien—still residents of Nashua, are convinced their long lost brother and J. K. Stewart, the millionaire speedometer king, were one and the same person. They have declared, however, that they will make no effort to obtain any part of his fortune.

Last Heard of Twenty Years Ago.

Twenty years ago was the last heard from Terence. He was in London. He made no mention of a change of names. A reply addressed to Terence O'Brien was returned, unclaimed.

Miss Ethel Butler, 4939 Champlain avenue, a niece of Mrs. Stewart, declared yesterday her family always knew Stewart was not their uncle's right name. He was close mouthed, she said, and never discussed his early life. He was averse to having his photograph taken, she stated, and as far as she knew no picture of him was ever made.

Though of age here and legally entitled to her father's property, it so far Marion has only obtained $180,000 from the estate, of which Leander Le Chance, her half cousin, is administrator. Obtaining this money involved a legal tangle that is still unsettled.

Legality of Sale Questioned.

The Wells building, owned by Mr. Stewart, was sold for $464,000. Under his Chicago will, Mrs. Stewart, Marion and Jean, the other daughter, shared equally, though since the death of the other two Marion inherits all. On the morning of the day the building was to be sold, Jean died. The deal was completed just as if she were still alive.

This raised a question of the legality of the transaction. Marion, however, received a certified check for $188,000, her third. This she exchanged for a cashier's check and purchased liberty bonds. The certified check was held up, due to a protest from the administrators that the money should pass through their hands. As Marion had already received the money, it was later paid.

Marion was then asked to sign a quitclaim to the building in order to remove any flaw in the title. She was advised against this, because of the question arising out of her sister's death.

Denies Dual Identity.

From Robert Honeyman Sr., father-in-law to the Stewart heiress, comes denial of the dual identity of her father. He insists all records show Stewart and O'Brien are not the same person. "Mr. Stewart did live in New England," he said, "and he did leave home, but the reason was that he did not want to become a clergyman, as his father, a clergyman, insisted."

TRIBUNE MAN, ILL., IS MISSING FROM CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Charles W. Warner Jr., 47 years old, living at 3209 Evergreen avenue, left the Augustana hospital, where he was a patient, last Tuesday, to go to a barber shop, accompanied by a fellow patient, John Montan. Montan climbed into a chair, but Warner declared he was going back to the hospital. That was the last seen of him.

Mr. Warner had for some time been one of the chiefs of the engraving department of this Tribune. He weighed 150 pounds, was 5 feet 5 inches in height, and was dressed in a black overcoat, dark suit, green fedora hat, black shoes, tan socks, black and white shirt and dark red and black necktie. He wore a brown mustache streaked with gray, and was slightly bald.

Since Aug. 25 he had been at the Augustana hospital suffering from a nervous breakdown. He became melancholy over his slow recovery.

CONCRETE HEADS PASSE; MIX IN A LITTLE QUARTZ

Taft Tells Latest Style in Statues.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.
Concrete heads are going out of fashion. They're too common. And, besides, they're uninteresting, dull, and totally lacking in sparkle.

But concrete, mixed with a bit of quartz, there's a head combination for you and your thoroughly up to date statue. Quartz, in the right amount, will make any statue lift its head a bit higher, according to Lorado Taft, the sculptor, who initiated members of the West End Catholic Women's club into the mysteries of clay, marble, and chisel at his studio, 6018 Ellis avenue, yesterday afternoon.

A Den of Noses.

In their tour of the workshop of the women discovered a Bluebeard den of noses. Straight, Roman, aquiline, even a few snub; they were displayed in all their brazen nudity. Fingers, arms, and wrists were taken down, analyzed, and hung up again on their nails. Ankles were treated as "artistic problems."

Alice in Wonderland, so the women learned, had no monopoly on this business of adding to and subtracting from one's size or height. For all things are possible, if you have a sculptor friend with a "pointing machine."

Heroes in Clay.

A simple machine it is with a series of compass-like arms and a revolving platform, but it can reduce a politician to an inch figure, make a perfect 38 into an Amazon, or so enlarge a grasshopper that he will bewilder an elephant.

Black Hawk, Campanini, Julius Caesar, a Red Cross nurse, Cato, Queen Elizabeth, Father Time, they were all in the receiving line, with feet of clay.

FORD OFFERS TO BUILD SHOALS DAM AT $400,000

Washington, D. C., Nov. 18.—(Special.)—Henry Ford conferred with Secretary of Commerce Hoover here today regarding his proposal to take over the government's water power project at Muscle Shoals, Ala., but made no essential modification in his offer to amortize $28,000,000 for the construction of dam No. 2, which sum the government holds in insufficient.

Mr. Ford, however, suggested that he would construct the dam, himself, at cost, and that in so doing he could bring the cost down to about $40,000,000, which is the sum of the revised estimates of costs made by government engineers.

The Ford engineers argue that the government should sustain part of the cost of the dam as compensation for the aid to navigation which construction of the dam will offer. Cost of a dam to make the Tennessee river navigable has been estimated at from $9,000,000 to $12,000,000. This allowance, added to the proposed Ford amortization of $28,000,000 would bring the compensation up to approximately $40,000,000, which Mr. Ford considers a fair proposition.

VOTE FRAUD QUIZ ENDS; WILL FIND BILLS IN 2 CASES

Grand Jury Will Take Up Merit Law Offenses.

It was announced yesterday afternoon that the special grand jury impaneled by Judge M. L. McKinley of Criminal court has completed its investigation of alleged vote frauds. According to the announcement, which was made by Assistant State Attorney George E. Gorman, following a meeting in Judge McKinley's chamber, the grand jury will meet again on Nov. 29 and return indictments in only two cases.

One of these cases deals with a precinct in the Twenty-first ward, where the Thompson ticket is said to have been credited with about thirty more votes than it was entitled to, and another in the Thirty-first ward, where a colored man voted illegally.

Clerks Claim a Mistake.

Clerks of the Twenty-first ward precinct claimed the votes were added to the Thompson ticket by mistake; that it was merely a clerical error. In the second case it was found the affidavit upon which the colored man voted was not a proper one.

Frederick A. Brown, attorney for the Chicago Bar association, was called into the meeting before Judge McKinley and given a complete report of the work done by the grand jury. He was asked if he cared to carry the investigation further. His answer was "no."

Civil Service Quiz Next.

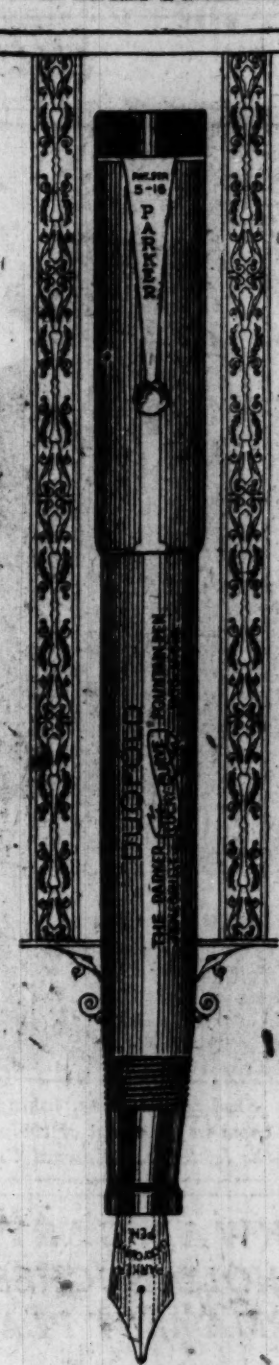

Mr. Gorman announced that alleged violations of the civil service laws will be taken up when the special grand jury reconvenes. It is expected this investigation will develop many sensational cases.

"I want to announce that any one who comes to the state's attorney and promises to testify before the grand jury will be protected by the state's attorney," said Mr. Gorman. "The state has gone around that the people who have donated to certain parties in violation of the civil service laws will be prosecuted. If they will come to us and tell their story before the investigating body we will take care of them."

STATE READY FOR SMALL'S TRIAL, MORTIMER SAYS

The state will be ready for trial at Waukegan in the Small-Curtis cases on Dec. 5. Attorneys for the prosecution will tell Judge Edwards they are prepared to begin the impaneling of a jury as quickly as he decides the preliminary motions submitted by Gov. Small's lawyers.

All attorneys who will aid in the prosecution conferred at Springfield yesterday, and following the meeting State's Attorney Mortimer announced he sees no obstacle in the way of immediate trial, if the defense submits its proposed motions by next Friday.

According to reports from the conference, the state anticipates a general attack upon all the indictments in the case, with a specific onslaught upon the conspiracy charges.

Under terms of the agreement already reached with Judge Edwards the defense is required to submit to the prosecution not later than next Friday the form of the motions it will present.

Moonshine Killing

HARRY MANN.

MRS. IDA VAN NESS.

In a quarrel over the last drink from a bottle of moonshine whisky in the home of Mrs. Van Ness, John S. Smith was stabbed to death by Harry Mann early yesterday.

HARRY MANN, 1742 Granville avenue, is charged with murder as the result of his stabbing John S. Smith, 6241 Greenwood avenue, to death early yesterday after a "moonshine" revel in the home of Mrs. Ida Van Ness, 6256 Blackstone avenue.

Mann confessed to the Woodlawn police that he stabbed Smith, but he claimed he acted in self-defense. The statements of Mrs. Van Ness and of Mrs. Edna Leonard and Miss Catherine Harrison, roomers in the house and participants in the "party," were taken at the state's attorney's office and they were released.

According to Mrs. Van Ness, Mann and Smith came to her home shortly after midnight, bringing a bottle of "moonshine."

"Finally they began quarreling," she said, "and then they came to blows. They were fighting over who should have the last drink. At the end Smith fell, bleeding from three wounds, and Mann fled."

The women notified the police and Smith died soon after reaching the Illinois Central hospital. Mann was arrested an hour later at his home.

Both Smith and Mann were married and Mrs. Van Ness' husband was at work in an Indiana Harbor steel mill at the time of the affair.

CHICAGO TRADERS POINT MENACE IN CANAL TOLL BILL

Enactment of the bill now in congress to exempt American vessels in coastwise trade from payment of tolls when passing through the Panama canal would be, in the view of the Chicago Association of Commerce, "a serious blow at the economic development of the inland industrial centers."

Yesterday, the association sent letters to active commercial organizations in every important city in the middle west urging that pressure be brought to bear upon congressmen against passage of the bill.

Would Favor Seaboard States. The association declares that the bill's enactment would give to the seaboard states a "tremendous advantage" in the matter of freight rates between the Atlantic and Pacific coast cities.

"Already," the letters assert, "the all-water rates via the canal (with tolls added) are far below the transcontinental rail rates and much lower than the rates from the middle west to the Pacific coast."

"Freedom from the payment of tolls, the ocean carriers could make such rates as would inevitably shut out middle western shippers from Pacific coast business, competitive with seaboard manufacturers and shippers.

"The moral issue, it seems to us, is quite clear, and there can be, in our judgment, no confusion or misunderstanding as to the interpretation of article 3, clause 1, of the Hay-Pauncefote Treaty with Great Britain, which reads:

"The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation, or its citizens, in respect of the conditions or charges of traffic or otherwise. Such conditions and charges of traffic shall be just and equitable."

"On economic grounds as well as in the interest of the sanctity of international relations, this bill should be defeated."

Urges Freight Rates Cut. Representatives of transcontinental railroads, appearing before Examiner William H. Disque of the Interstate commerce commission in the Great Northern hotel yesterday, reiterated pleas for authority to reduce freight rates on shipments to the Pacific coast from points east of the Rocky mountains.

They contend that, even with the Panama tolls act in full force, the railroads are unable to meet competition of coastwise shipping.

JAILED FOR NONSUPPORT. George Allen, 3621 Sheffield avenue, was sentenced to serve six months in the Bridge and to pay $15 weekly to the support of his wife and their 7-year-old son yesterday by Judge Anna Adams in the Court of Domestic Relations.

BY ALBON HOLDEN.

What promises to be one of the greatest football battles of the season will be staged on Stagg field this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the Maroon and foe will meet in a clash of Wisconsin and Chicago.

Despite gloomy weather outlook, it should be a grand exhibition of slugging football. Both Coach Richards and Coach Stagg are prepared for any kind of going. If there is no rain this morning the field may be in fairly good shape, for the turf has been under a blanket of hay for two weeks.

Under favorable conditions both teams will use a lot of open football, Wisconsin trying to get Williams and Elliott into the open and employing its deceptive screen forward pass attack. Chicago can turn Cole, Romney, and Pratt loose, if the footing is firm, and has an equally brilliant forward pass attack.

If the ground is muddy and footing treacherous neither team will be floundering hopelessly, for both have a surplus of power in a straight driving attack. Richards can assault the Maroon line with Sundt and Gould, and when Timme, Thomas, Zorn, and Hurlburt smash the Badger rush wall there is going to be considerable of an impact.

Capt. Sundt will punt for the Cardinals and Romney and Cole for the Maroons.

Vengeance Inspires Maroons. Chicago is particularly anxious for a victory. The Midway is clamoring for a defeat of Wisconsin. In both games since the resumption of varsity football after the war Wisconsin has matched last quarter victories when a tie seemed imminent. In 1919, after a 3 to 1 deadlock until the last three minutes of play, Davey, the Wisconsin quarterback, ran sixty-five yards with a punt for a 10 to 3 win.

Last year Davey repeated. Hopelessly crippled in the backfield, Chicago hoped only to hold Richards' machine to a low score, but actually outplayed Wisconsin most of the route, making eleven first downs to five for the Badgers and threatening to score several times. With five minutes to play in the final period, Wisconsin got inside of the Maroon forty yard line for the first time, and Davey scored a drop kick for a 3 to 0 victory. But Allan Davey, the Maroon line, now has graduated.

Poles Cord to Handle Mob. The biggest crowd that ever saw a game in Chicago will fill the stadium. Every time Stagg field is visited by a big team, the Midway authorities find a new corner in which to put a few more benches. Over 30,000 tickets have been sold for today's clash, which will eclipse any previous football crowd in the city, and as many more were turned down in making application for tickets. A special cord of police will surround the field to maintain order and handle the crowd.

Two thousand pilgrims from Madison will arrive this morning on special trains with the band, and a badger mascot, which is on its first visit to the big city. He will be shown the sights on Michigan avenue this morning.

Teams in Physical Trim. Just as the Wisconsin team started onto the practice gridiron yesterday afternoon, a cloudburst opened up, covering the ground with two inches of water. Coach Richards called it a day and took his team back to the Del Prado hotel.

The Maroons did not take the field, Coach Stagg figuring that an hour's work in the gymnasium was better than splashing around on the practice field. Every man on both teams is in shape to play, Bryan and Strohecker of the Maroons being the only athletes who probably cannot go the full route.

Comparative scores, which are notoriously unreliable, give the Maroons a shade on form. Chicago defeated Northwestern 41 to 0, using over thirty-five men, while Wisconsin, using its regular team until within five minutes of the end of the game, defeated the Purple 27 to 6. Wisconsin defeated Illinois 20 to 6, but was handed every score of the game and could make only three first downs to five for Illinois, while the Maroon machine pounded relentlessly to thirteen first downs against Illinois in the second half. But comparative scores mean little, especially with the prospect of a sloppy gridiron today.

The Maroons have lost only one game, defeated 7 to 0 by Ohio State, a team the Badgers have not faced. Wisconsin has a clean slate except for an unexpected 7 to 7 tie at the hands of Michigan last Saturday.

It is startling, you say, that New York would recognize that there was anything in the west worth mentioning. It is true, however, but a quietus on post-season games. Couldn't these rules be abrogated temporarily and an effort made to stage a battle between the winner of the Yale-Harvard game in the east and the winner of the conference title—the winner of the conference title to be decided in some way so that every one would be satisfied, hard as it may seem?

The game could be played in Washington, where the weather is mild at this season of the year, and the delegates at the disarmament congress would have something besides armies and navies to talk about.

We believe if President Harding or some one big man in Washington would make the request, the Big Ten conference would find some way to let its best team go east and the east would not be impolite enough to refuse to enter its prize.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.
Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Throw caution away; take every chance. Open up with everything you have. You might as well be beaten 30 to 0 as beaten.

Such are Coach Zuppke's instructions to the Illinois players in the fight against the American association ball while their rivals took a final drill on Ohio field, which is heavy from rains nearly every day this week.

Forward Pass Favorite Play. Illinois plays to gain ground, mostly of the forward pass variety, were run off time and again, both varsity and second squads working for over an hour on the heavy turf the outfield. Every now and then of their own volition they wandered into the mud around second base to see how the same plays would work in the mud.

Illinois figures its best chance to win in by an aerial attack, supplemented by Crangle's bucks, Peden's dodging, and perhaps a kick or two by Sternaman. But what will Ohio be doing all that time, you ask?

The Illinois, despite their row of defeats, have broken up forward passes so far this season. Chicago, Michigan, and Wisconsin, according to the Illinois doers, did not complete a single pass against them, and Iowa only two, neither for any distance.

Zuppke Fears Trick Plays. So Illinois does not fear passes as much as it does trick plays, for the smartness and cleverness of the Buckeyes is recognized by Zuppke, who says that the Ohio-Chicago game has reports from his scouts on the other Buckeye endeavors.

Ohio State's athletic department professes to have a wholesome respect for the visitors, inspired by past experience, for it was only two years ago that Illinois as under dog took away the title here by a drop kick which left the score 9 to 7. Warning against overconfidence is Wilco's burden of talk.

The barbers, hotel porters, and cigar clerks tell you that Ohio is a romp.

He's the Same Old Charlie Off as On!

By Mae Tinée.

The minute I entered the lobby of the Blackstone hotel I knew that Mr. Ray had not yet arrived. The fact was written large all over the features of the small boy in a white sailor suit, who stood, all eyes, fidgeting and waiting. Of course, he might have been waiting for almost anybody. Instinctively, however, one knew what had brought him there. His fond mamma every minute or so reaching out an anxious hand to smooth his hair or pick an imaginary something off his sleeve, was none the less transparent. I said to the beautiful blonde dame with me:

"He isn't here yet." She said: "How do you know? Ask at the desk." I asked at the desk—and he hadn't come.

His train wasn't late, but it seems that at the station there were cameras to be faced and questionnaires to be answered. Then Messrs. Balaban and Katz, whose guest he is, did want him to see their new Chicago theater. And then, he and those with him slipped out through an alleyway to catch a taxi, so they would not attract attention, and were successful. No taxi came near them. It was necessary at last to emerge from the broad highway, where, at last, a cab was obtained. So (sigh), after about an hour, they appeared at the Blackstone, by which time I had accumulated Mr. Ray's attorney, who was also waiting, and a New York press representative—who was likewise waiting, and a man from the stockyards—who was also waiting.

The gentleman from the stock yards wants Mr. Ray to visit the stock yards. Whether he does or not is a mooted question, though the press representative from New York announced solemnly that he thought Mr. Ray probably would like to, as he "used to play in stock." (Wow)

As the star came up the steps the little boy in the white sailor suit and his mamma were right there. The fond mamma took the little boy's hand and placed it in Mr. Ray's. She said:

"Mr. Ray, my son has just been LIVING for this moment! Last night he never closed his eyes! The little boy gasped. Mr. Ray swallowed hard and fond mamma continued:

"He kept saying to me: 'Mamma, WILL it soon be morning?' It was all I could do to quiet the child!" The little boy gasped. Mr. Ray swallowed hard. I don't think he said a word to the little boy. And I don't think the little boy said a word to him. I do know, however, that when Mr. Ray had finished Mr. Ray was in possession of the information that some day she and the little boy would come to the coast, when, perhaps, Mr. Ray might be able to use the little boy?

Then Mr. Ray came over to our corner. We all went up to his suite, where Mrs. Ray was already installed. She had been wretchedly tired, sick, and was anxious for a rest. Here let me tell you something. You never hear of Charlie Ray's even casting an eye sirenward. There's a reason. It's Mrs. Ray. He has rarely had a lead who was as pretty or as charming as his wife. She's a dainty blonde thing, with a manner that is cordial and charming. She dresses exquisitely. If anybody is doing any worrying in this family, you tell the world it's Charlie!

Well, what does he look like in real life? Just like he looks on the screen. When I saw him he was a symphony in brown—expensive, but not gaudy. There's nothing upstage about him. He poses for your camera or tells you the story of his life with all the good will in the world.

He was always wild to go on the stage, but, having read that somebody, "David Warfield or David Belasco," said that the trouble with most actors was their lack of education, he decided to his parents' wishes and went to high school; also took a course in business college, "supping" in his off hours, just to satisfy the taste.

Sombody told him in 1912 that people in the movies got as high as $50 a week. He didn't believe it, but he went to Los Angeles to find out. "Work he did as an extra for Mr. Ince, attracted the attention of that gentleman—and that was the beginning."

"You know, though," said Mr. Ray, confidentially, "what I'd really like to do would be to play character parts on the stage. Nothing to those straight leads—I wouldn't want to do that. I'd like to play on the stage and make an occasional picture, instead of just making pictures all the time. That's my ambition."

He would have talked on indefinitely—for he does want to please. And he would have liked him to, for he knows how to be interesting and he has the same personal charm in real life that he has in real life. But I remembered a luncheon at which he was due at 1 o'clock and arose to take my leave.

Which was when I met Mrs. Ray. By that time she was dressed and in the hands of a manœuvre. Lovely!

The Rays will be here a couple of days more. "The Iron Trail," their latest night and expect to go to the Wisconsin-Chicago football game this afternoon. They think they're going to have a good time in our city. We sure hope they do.

CLOSEUPS. Next Wednesday evening "The Iron Trail," a United Artists production—story by Rex Beach—will be given a special showing at the Chicago Athletic club. This is the first of a series of melodramas to be written by Mr. Beach, who believes that the country clamors for the old "ten-twenty-three" and aims to give the public what it wants.

HAROLD TEEN—SHE FORGETS ALL THE WAY AROUND

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

By Christine Jones

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Maiden of today, there is some reason for those "reluctant feet" with which you stand "where the brook and river meet." Why, indeed, should you not want to stay around in the pleasant neighborhood of your fourteenth birthday? For here you enjoy just the same styles as those of more mature years. Your conversational boundaries are not nearly so limited as those of shy old creatures of 40. Flapperhood is, in fact, a glorious condition with all of the privileges and none of the responsibilities of maturity.

We show today a charming suit of blue poplin for the girl of from 12 to 16. This is lined with red wool showing in the revers of the jacket and repeated in the two bands inclosing the plaited section of the skirt. Silver braid on the short jaunty jacket and silver buttons together with gray squirrel complete the charm of this unusual little costume.

Incidentally, one may mention that neither for young nor old has the plait abdicated its position in fashion.

Devey was with his mother and grandfather in a café having dinner, when suddenly he spoke up: "Mother, I'll bet every one in here will think grandfather is our husband."

One day Dorothy Sue was invited to her chum's house for luncheon. Near the end of the meal the hostess' mother, observing that the guest did not eat the dessert, canned peaches, said, "Why, Dorothy, don't you like peaches?"

"O yes, mum," was the quick reply; "only at home we always have them alive."

DORIS BLAKE

He Is Handsome.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 17 and was introduced to a fellow one year older. Ever since that day we have met. He told me that he does not care for girls. But he said he likes me. I love him very much because he is handsome! Kindly advise me what to do to have him ask me to go out with him. Kirtty."

About the only thing a girl can do under such circumstances is to give a party at her home and invite the young man. Then, if he does not offer a return courtesy in the way of an invitation somewhere, she simply has to be resigned to fate.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON

The Border Mold.

The cheapest bit of elegance in cookery is the border mold of rice for a stew or something like curried chicken or lamb. It is truly and indeed easier to make than pie, and yet with chicken it may be somewhat on the order of chicken pie.

For a border mold nine inches across, large enough for a large chop platter costing about 75 cents and promising a lifetime of wear, take one cup and a half of rice, look it over and wash it in cold water until water runs off clear, and put it to drain. Let it get well drained before putting it to cook in three times its measure of boiling water—the general rule for crock rice.

Five and a half cups of water is what is required for one cup and a half of rice, but this may be scanty a little because the quantity is so large. Add a teaspoon of salt, bring water to boil, and add drained rice in such a way that the water will not stop boiling. Boil the whole five minutes without covering it, then cover, and cook over a low fire for fifteen or a few more minutes. Take off cover and let dry for five or ten minutes—different days, different ways, or different barometers, etc.

Rice out of the border mold with cold water, pack the rice into it solid, invert on chop platter, fill center with stew or fricassee, and garnish.

2 STATES JOIN IN DEDICATING MERIDIAN TRAIL

Politics Barred at Opening of Highway.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 18.—[Special.]—Political fireworks were missing today from the joint highway dedication which took more than a thousand Illinois and Wisconsin people ten miles through a drizzling rain to join hands and commercial destinies over the new ribbon of concrete which carries the improved Meridian trail across the state line.

It was not healthy weather for highway politics in or about Rockford. The people who pushed through the persistent downpour and stood for more than an hour in a bleak wind to show their appreciation of highway transportation development made that point plain before they consented to join the cabinet.

Object to Political Speeches.
"If you are serious and will talk real road building, we're for it," they told friends of Gov. Len Small, who first suggested the governor as chief celebrator. "If completion of this great paved highway is to be used for political prestige, count us out. Politics and highway building are through playing together."

Three hundred cars formed two lines in the dedication parade. One line was launched in Beloit, the other in Rockford. They met at the state line where the last few yards of the half million dollar improvement links the two states. Gov. Small got down from his car on the Illinois side and struck hands with Gov. James J. Blaine, who headed the Wisconsin delegation. Gov. Small made a short address in which he outlined the advantages of the new pavement and others like it to people of the state.

Hopes for 1,000 Miles in 1922.
"No development in Illinois is more important today than the highway program," he said. "And we hope to build 1,000 miles of roads in 1922 to show the world what we think."
"Splendid, Illinois," cried Gov. Blaine in reply. "Wisconsin has known this modern axiom for several years. Keep on like this and you may beat us yet in carrying it out."

Two trees, to be known as "buddy trees," were planted near the state line by world war veterans in memory of the soldier dead of Wisconsin and Illinois.

OPEN CONVENTION TODAY ON PUBLIC OWNED UTILITIES

Leading proponents of public ownership of utilities and quasi-public enterprises will assemble in the Congress hotel today for a three day conference. The convention is to be under auspices of the Public Ownership League of North America.

The program promises speeches by Charles Edward Russell, author and lecturer; Glenn E. Plumb of Washington, author of the Plumb plan for government control of railroads; Walter Millard, field secretary of the National Municipal League, and the Rev. John A. Ryan of the Catholic university at Washington.

Mayor James Couzens of Detroit declined to come to Chicago to address the Association of Commerce on traction problems—because of Mayor Thompson's "leadership"—will be represented by J. S. Woodwin, manager of the Detroit Municipal Street Railway lines. His subject will be, "The Progress Detroit Has Made With Its Municipal Street Car Lines."

Delos F. E. Wilcox, municipal ownership adviser of Elmhurst, N. J., is scheduled to talk this afternoon on "The Street Car Crisis and the Way Out."

Choice for U.S. Marshal

ROBERT R. LEVY.

ROBERT R. LEVY, chief deputy to the clerk of the Criminal court and a druggist at 331 East 47th street, was nominated yesterday by President Harding to be United States marshal for the northern district of Illinois.

In 1916, Mr. Levy was a candidate for the office of short time assessor, but was defeated. He has held his present office for three years.

The new marshal is a mason and a member of the Chicago Retail Druggists' association, and the Illinois Athletic and the Hamilton clubs. He has been a resident of Chicago since 1876.

NEW WORK RULES IN RAIL SHOPS TO BE READY DEC. 1
Railway shop crafts working rules to supplant the national agreements give effect under federal control of the roads probably will be prescribed before Dec. 1, and will become effective on that date, it was announced at the United States railroad labor board offices last night.

Seven of the total of about 170 shop crafts rules were laid down by the board a few months ago. These, in some instances, reduced scales of pay for overtime and holiday work, and were received with dissatisfaction by union leaders.

B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, however, urged suspension of judgment until the completed code governing working conditions is announced.

SALE OF MEMORY TREE MARKERS IN HANDS OF LEGION

BY LEO LA ALLARD.

The Memory trees and their markers are now in charge of the American Legion, and any application for markers must be made to that worthy organization. The orders will be filled as promptly as possible, and the money should be sent to the Legion, care State Adjutant William Q. Settle, 111 Washington street.

Tin Hat Markers $2.
The small helmet, or "tin hat" marker of bronze, for individuals who are planting trees in school yards, on private property, or in parks and not on highways, will be furnished for $2 per marker, but must be set by those purchasing the same. These markers at that price contain only the name of soldier (no rank is mentioned on memory roads), his unit, the date of death or discharge, and the date of enlistment.

May Order of Secretary.
Miss Potter, secretary to Adj. Settle, who has done such faithful work in attending to the memory road markers, will continue to give necessary information to those who ask for it. The markers for the thousands of memory trees planted Armistice day may be ordered through her, and money sent to her.

"There is no use having good roads," said Judge George Kersten, "if forest preserve districts unless the people are protected by officers of the law. Mr. Peters is asking for 125 men, I am of the opinion that the number of deputies for this patrolling work should be even greater than that figure."

The committee which will conduct the hearing is composed of Judges Charles M. Thompson, Thomas J. Lynch and Harry M. Fisher.

JUDGES TO ACT TODAY ON RURAL POLICE PETITION

Expect 125 Deputies for Work.

Creation of a department in the sheriff's office by a committee of county judges for patrolling highways and forest preserve districts is expected today.

Action will be taken at an open hearing scheduled to be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning in the county building. It will be based upon a petition filed in the Circuit court by Sheriff Charles W. Peters requesting permission of the judges to hire 125 deputies for the work of the department.

Sheriff Peters' request is the outgrowth of a crime wave in the outlying districts of the county. He sets forth in the petition that a series of holdups, gun fights and attacks upon women and children has terrorized residents of rural districts.

Favorable action upon the sheriff's request will mean the establishment of a county police force, equipped with motorcycles, to patrol the roads. Unanimous approval of the proposal as outlined in the petition was obtained yesterday from judges of the Criminal court by chief deputy sheriff H. C. W. Laubenthal.

"There is no use having good roads," said Judge George Kersten, "if forest preserve districts unless the people are protected by officers of the law. Mr. Peters is asking for 125 men, I am of the opinion that the number of deputies for this patrolling work should be even greater than that figure."

The committee which will conduct the hearing is composed of Judges Charles M. Thompson, Thomas J. Lynch and Harry M. Fisher.

ETTELSON FAILS AS PEACE ENVOY, MAYOR TO CROWE

'Situation Is Unchanged,' Prosecutor Says.

Mayor Thompson sent State's Attorney George A. Eitelson, known as the adroit diplomat of the Lundin-Thompson administration.

Mr. Eitelson is said to have carried a large olive branch to the state attorney's office and to have told Mr. Crowe that the way back into the Lundin-Thompson fold would be made easy if he would take a more "reasonable view of the open town question."

"The situation is unchanged. It is the same as it was," Mr. Crowe said when the conference, which lasted more than an hour, was over.

Yesterday Mr. Eitelson went to the Criminal Court building to confer with Mr. Crowe on legal questions growing out of the controversy between the prosecutor and the chief of police, on which Mr. Eitelson is writing an opinion for the mayor.

Deny Newmark Reports.
At the city hall it was said that Mr. Eitelson made "some progress" and it was emphatically denied that the name of Ben Newmark, chief investigator for Mr. Crowe and a police lieutenant of Mr. Eitelson, had been mentioned. Newmark conferred with Mr. Eitelson before he visited Mr. Crowe and there was a report that the conference had to do with Newmark's retention as chief investigator.

Expect Ruling for Crowe.
It is deemed probable that Mr. Eitelson's opinion will hold that once Chief Fitzmorris has assigned policemen to the state's attorney's office he is powerless to control them and that he may not demand reports of them. There would be in the nature of a concession to Mr. Crowe.

On the other hand, Chief Fitzmorris' position is that he is "not only chief of police, but chief of all the police," and such a ruling would necessitate a retreat on his part. His friends say he will quit before he retreats.

Four assistant corporation counsel are working on the legal opinion on which Mayor Thompson says he will base his decision in the gambling imbroglio.

COUNTY BOARD DEMOCRATS DENY CITY HALL CLAIMS

Daniel Ryan, president of the county board, and County Commissioner Frank J. Wilson, both Democrats, returned yesterday from West Baden, Ind., and at once vigorously denied statements that they had been there in conference with the Lundin-Thompson Republicans on the proposition of an anti-coalition movement for the 1922 elections.

It had been rumored they were of aid support of the city hall machine for reelection if they oppose coalition of Democrats and anti-Thompson Republicans. Stories of a counter fusion ticket of city hall Republicans and disgruntled Democrats had also been circulated.

"I was for coalition before going to West Baden," said Commissioner Wilson. "There was so much talk from the Thompson crowd that Democrats could win without coalition that I am stronger than ever for it. Their opposition means they fear defeat unless they can induce the Democrats to 'go it alone.'"

"We discussed no politics with the Thompson people," Ryan said. "We are Democrats and expect to be candidates for reelection on the coalition ticket."

TRADES COUNCIL WANTS A SUBWAY TO AID JOBLESS

Approves Proposal to Build at Once.

Approval of the proposal to build a Chicago subway immediately was registered last night by the Chicago Building Trades council.

Edward Ryan, president of the Architectural Iron workers, and Joseph Corr, business agent of the Structural Iron Workers, both warmly commended the project in speeches from the floor.

An immediate start in the building of a subway in Chicago would be one of the real solutions for the unemployment situation here," Mr. Ryan declared. "It would necessitate the employment of thousands of workers. It would give needed employment to idle cement workers, electricians, iron workers, plumbers, teamsters, and miscellaneous labor. As the work progressed more and more men would be called into it."

One of the Best Job Proposals.
"From a labor standpoint the proposal is one of the best so far brought forward this year. From a public standpoint it would be a great transportation relief."

"The building of a subway has the support of every union man in Chicago with the exception of a few chronic knickers. Their work against the project won't be felt."

Mr. Ryan's talk was cheered by the union men present. Mr. Corr in his speech, said that a subway would not only mean employment for those actually working on the project, but wherever the subway went a building boom would follow. This he declared, was of far more importance to union labor than the actual tunneling.

Carpenters Get No Solace.
A resolution asking all unions affiliated with the council to support the carpenters in their stand against the project of the Landis was adopted, received cool treatment from the delegates.

The resolution was presented by Harry Jensen, president of the Carpenters' District council. After much argument it was suggested that Mr. Jensen withdrew the resolution. He did so.

UPTOWN CHICAGO INTERESTS FORM PERMANENT BODY

The Uptown Chicago association, to be a year-round organization, comprising merchants in the district between Addison street and the city limits and between Ravenswood avenue and the lake, has been formed to take the place of the Uptown Chicago Exposition association, whose activities were confined to an annual exposition. The exposition given early in November demonstrated the need of continued cooperation.

Loren Miller, dry goods merchant, 4722 Broadway, was elected president. Other officers are:

Past president, H. D. Schiller, to sit on all committees; vice presidents, J. R. S. Crowder, Warner E. Holmgren, E. C. Hart, and Joe E. Rothenberg; treasurer, H. F. Marquis; secretary, Carl E. Roth. L. D. Wells, Fred Ruhl, J. F. Cornelius, and George Stollery were elected additional members of the board of directors.

SPANGLER OUT AS MANAGER OF CHICAGO OPERA

Work on Guarantors' List Reason Given.

Into the premiere of an opera season, perhaps the most promising Chicago has ever had, was catapulted last night a sensation in the resignation of George M. Spangler Jr. as business manager of the Chicago Opera association.

The announcement came from Harold P. McCormick, president of the association, making public the appointment of Clark A. Shaw, former tour manager, as acting business manager. Mr. McCormick said Mr. Spangler's retirement came through an apparent inability to procure 500 guarantors for the season's season's opera.

Last Year for McCormicks.
The present year, it was pointed out, is the last of the term wherein all losses of the opera association have been guaranteed by Mr. and Mrs. McCormick. Next season the association is to be placed virtually on a self-supporting basis, it is hoped. It was planned to procure the underwriting of the association at $500,000 per year for a term of five years, 500 guarantors to guarantee $1,000 per year each.

This was the plan under which Mr. Spangler had been working.

It was learned that Mr. Spangler so far had secured 248 signatories to the guaranty agreement—nearly half of the total. The chief part of Mr. Shaw's new duties will be the procuring of the remaining 252.

Differences in McCormick Family.
There was a report that Mr. Spangler's retirement was due to the known differences between Harold McCormick and Mrs. McCormick—contentions which involved policies with respect to the opera. This rumor was to the effect that Spangler represented the views of Mrs. McCormick, while the other hand there was a story that Mrs. McCormick objected to the "salesmanship" methods of Spangler and that her husband, in deference to her views, called for Spangler's resignation.

A friend of Spangler's declared that "he was between the devil and the deep blue sea trying to carry out orders for two masters."

At the opera this week Mr. McCormick and his daughter Muriel have sat in one box and Mrs. McCormick has occupied another box. There was no exchange of visits during intermissions.

"Change Had to Come."
However, the brief statement of Mr. McCormick contained only this: "I regret exceedingly that Mr. Spangler's resignation had to take place. He came here with the backing of the Association of Commerce and other influential business interests of Chicago on a platform of underwriting the opera company. For one reason and another plans did not work out as expected and the change had to come."

General Director Mary Garden, who attended the meeting, had little comment to make. "It was very sudden," she said to a reporter as he stepped into her automobile. It will work out all right, though. Everything is going to continue."

Mr. Shaw, the new business manager, refused to make a statement.

Complications for Shaw.
The executive committee made a formal announcement that it had changed from Spangler to Shaw and added: "Mr. Shaw has been tour manager of the Chicago Opera association for the last six years. During that period he has successfully secured guarantors for the production of opera by Chicago Opera company in most of the principal cities of the United States and has been universally successful—financially and otherwise—in every business office and undertaking by him."

"Under the direction of Miss Mary Garden, general director, Mr. Shaw will carry forward, with all possible economy, the administration of the business office and his appointment meets with general approval by the organization where he has been so long and favorably known."

LOVE OF PAPERS LEADS BOY FROM SCHOOL TO COURT

Because Michael Logan, 12, 2958 Normandie avenue, preferred to sell newspapers, gain his education from perusing their columns and sleep in alleys back of newspaper plants instead of at home, he is in the hands of the juvenile court. Yesterday Assistant State's Attorney Bess C. AIN'T IT A GRAND AND GLORIOUS FEELING

HER PHANTOM LOVER

by ELIZABETH YORK MILLER

INSTALLMENT XLVIII.
"ANDREW'S NOT A CHILD ANY MORE."
Doria's head reeled. She turned deathly white, but fortunately for her Mrs. Crouch was putting her box of relics back into the drawer and she had a moment in which to collect her wits.

Obviously the woman did not know whom she had married. But how could that be? Here she was in Rockport, living in the humblest of circumstances, content that her son should occupy a carpenter's bench in the town of which he could declare himself to be master.

And it meant that Ted was nothing. It meant that Doria could be turned out of West Court and that a thousand a year or so.

With something like a mental jerk she recovered her self-possession and apologized to Mrs. Crouch, or rather assured that good woman that never for a moment had she thought what was imputed to her. Then she began to question gently and with the air of sympathy she could assume so well.

Mrs. Crouch was quite willing to talk to Lady Westhaven. In fact, it seemed necessary, considering this new trouble of Andrew's.

Substantially it was the same story and their brief life together, but to Doria she elaborated details as became one woman to another. Little did she realize that those details, confirming her confirmation was scarcely necessary, drove the iron deeper and deeper until it fairly pierced Doria's shallow heart.

"So you see, my lady, I don't know to this day if he be dead or not. Did you ever hear of any Crouches hereabouts?"

Doria, white lipped, replied that she hadn't.

"Likely it wasn't his real name, as Andrew thinks," Mrs. Crouch observed with a sigh. "The only initials on his things were 'A. M.' He talked a rare lot about Rockport. That's why I came here. It seemed only right that he should do something for Andrew. I call myself a widow because it's more respectable," she added.

"People talk so, don't they, my lady?"

Doria nodded. Her heart was beating like a drum, and she could scarcely attend to what Mrs. Crouch was saying.

What should she do? Well enough she knew the answer to that. It became, then, a question of what she meant to do.

"But here I'm talking about myself and my own troubles, and you didn't come for that, my lady. Only I couldn't help standing up for my boy. It would have been so different had his father done his duty by Andrew. Then perhaps 'twouldn't have seemed so presumptuous of him to fancy a young lady like Miss Marwood. That was one reason why I told you. And I don't know what I can do with him. He's a queer lad, is Andrew. Never a word to me about this, at all." She glanced toward the door leading to the shop and lowered her voice. "I thought all along 'twas the girl out there—her that the light in Tintown was about. In a way, I must say, I'm relieved. You want me to speak to him? My lady, I couldn't do it. Andrew's not a child any more. He must do for himself the best he can."

Doria gave her a limp hand in parting, and found herself out in the street where her car was waiting attendant by the juvenile population of the immediate neighborhood. A few doors away Letty Price's mother stood watching from her steps ready to pounce down upon Mrs. Crouch to find out what it was all about.

But Doria did not enter her car. Half a block in the other direction was Ronald's little house.

She had a great impulse to confide in Ronny. No, she didn't dare do that. He would probably say that Andrew Crouch, the carpenter, must have his just rights. Ronny was that kind of a fool, but Doria wasn't. She had become filled with a sort of hurt, indignant hatred against Andrew. Never—never!

Yet it was like living on the edge of a volcano. Any moment some little thing might happen to set the thing heaving. The wonder was it hadn't happened ages ago. They didn't remotely suspect, neither Andrew nor his mother.

Suppose that busybody, Martin Drake, took it into his head to see Mrs. Crouch? Martin was quite as big a fool as Ronny when it came to what they were both pleased to call honor. The truth was—as Doria saw it—that neither Ronny nor Martin had a thing to lose by a change for the better in Andrew Crouch's social and financial status. In fact, it would be an easy way out for Martin Drake, where Crystal's pignessness was concerned. He couldn't refuse to let her marry a young man whose real name was Lord Westhaven and whose fortune ran close to the million mark.

No, those two, Ronny and Martin, wouldn't care very much. It was Ted who would lose, not to mention Doria, herself.

She determined to say nothing. At the same time she had an overwhelming desire to see her husband and play about with the subject of Andrew's and Crystal's fatuous affair. What he had said the other night about the girl who all honor let her marry a young man whose real name was Lord Westhaven and whose fortune ran close to the million mark.

So the car followed her the half block to his little house, and waited there.

Mrs. Higge came to the door beaming. O, yes, Mr. Barry was in. Just having tea.

He was having tea, as it turned out, with Rita Charing. There she sat, big, blonde, complacent, devouring buttered scones with the familiar air of the habitual visitor.

"How perfectly sweet of you to drop in on us!" she exclaimed. "Mrs. Higge, like a dear, fetch some more hot water. I can just squeeze you one cup, Doria."

She poured, playing the hostess with a regal air—hostess to Ronny, while his own wife was forced to hold out a shaking hand and take the cup proffered her.

The cup was bitter in two senses of the word.

BUILDING CRAFT THAT MAKES HIGH RENTS PICTURED

'Co-operation' in Industry
Shown Engineers.

The rent payer's "Old Man of the Sea" had his picture painted last night before the Chicago chapter of the American Association of Engineers. The brush was handled by Jacob L. Grossman, of the Dalley commission, who depicted conditions in the building industry which the commission revealed, and the citizens' "clean up" group is trying to wipe out through enforcement of the Landis award.

Trade associations, material organizations, labor unions, money lenders, contractors' combinations, all were touched on in the address.

Quintet Too Rough.
"Persons wanting houses in Chicago have been compelled to prefer to buy rather than build them," said Mr. Grossman. "The gauntlet has been too much—labor grafters, restrictive working rules of labor unions, monopoly creating agreements of labor unions and contractors' organizations, material men's combines, and the interest and commission charges of mortgage bankers."

"Evidence before the Dalley committee has shown that the activities of trade associations have manifested themselves in what they blandly call cooperative competition, open price plans, statistical bureaus, cost information bureaus, cost systems, standardization of product and price."

Agreements on Costs.
"Cost systems are installed so that uniform prices are bound to result. Prices are exchanged. Information is exchanged as to supplies on hand, in course of manufacture. Production is limited under allotment schemes and the supply thus brought under control. Territory and customers are divided."

"The master plumbers' by-laws in evidence show that the first master plumber on the job keeps it and the customer cannot change contractors without the consent of the first one."

"The most generous houses charged commissions on first mortgages all the way from 10 to 20 per cent. Second mortgage bond houses charged as high as 25 per cent, and possibly higher."

ARCHITECTS JOIN FIGHT

Chicago architects are now preparing for organized cooperation with the Citizens' "clean up" committee in the building industry. Leading members of the profession appeared before the executive group yesterday and signed an agreement that in drawing up specifications and in awarding contracts they will insist upon a clause to the effect that all work shall be done under terms of the Landis award. The committee elected F. W. Armstrong, formerly secretary of the Building exchange of Duluth, as general manager, and made ready to open headquarters in the Otis building. Mr. Armstrong was formerly with the Chicago Association of Commerce. In Duluth he managed a campaign that is said to have reduced building costs to the point where a house which cost $10,000 to build a year or two ago now goes up for $6,000.

TRIAL DELAY EXPLAINED

Lack of competent attorneys and the approach of the Christmas holidays will necessarily cause the postponement of the trial of the building graft cases until after the first of the year, according to an announcement made yesterday by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. He also will conduct an inquiry into the nature of a reply to one made by Senator John Dalley, chairman of the Illinois building investigation commission, on Thursday, in which Mr. Dalley had said that he would conduct an inquiry to fix responsibility for the delay in prosecution.

FARM AND GARDEN MIDWAY

CORN PEST RAIDS COOK COUNTY GREENHOUSES.

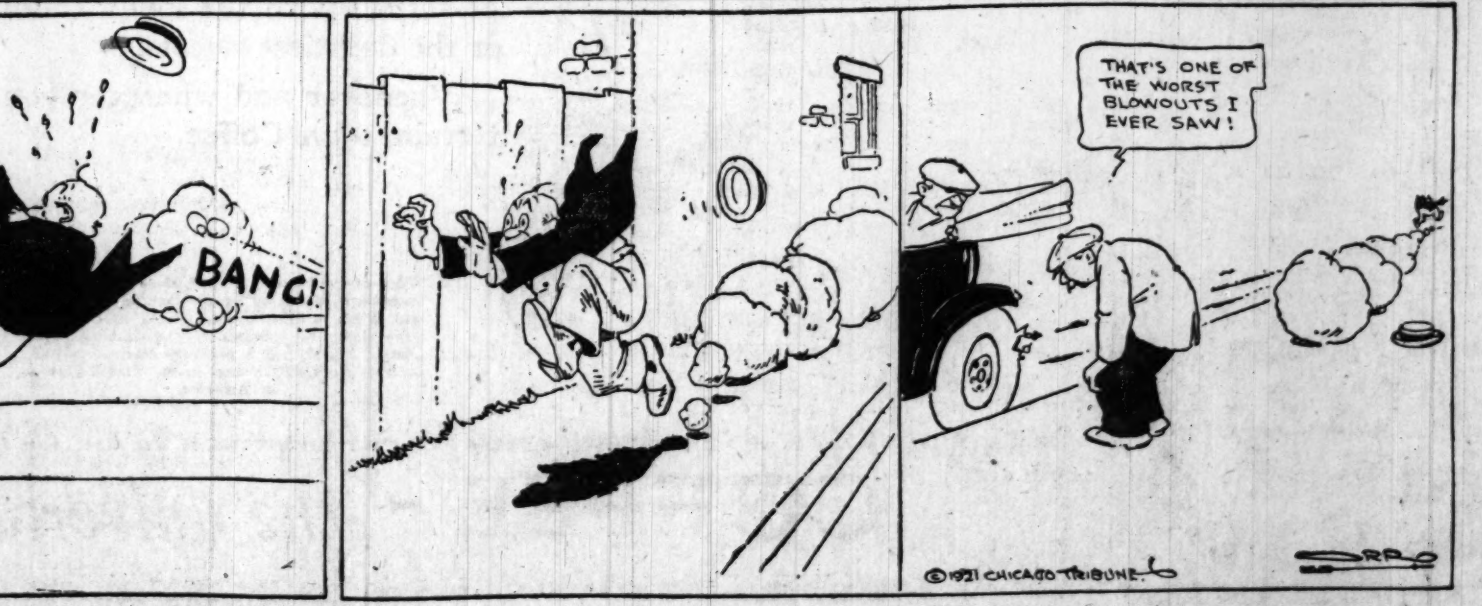

Greenhouse men around Chicago have another pest, the corn ear worm, added to their long list of flower destroyers. In writing to THE TRIBUNE, L. L. Heller, farm adviser of Cook county, says a recent adviser of greenhouses in this county has a representative of the state natural history survey and farm advisers indicates the corn ear worm may become quite a serious pest to growers of carnations, chrysanthemums, and tomatoes, as well as to the farmers growing corn, clover, and alfalfa.

These worms, according to Mr. Heller, moved from the fields into the greenhouses as soon as their supply of green foods outdoors was exhausted. They feed upon the carnation buds, chrysanthemums, and tomato plants. The worms deal a deathblow to the plants, for as soon as they get into the greenhouses they begin to feed on the blossom buds of the flowers. Picking the worms off by hand flower growers have found to be the most successful means of controlling this pest.

The corn ear worm is the larva of a moth Heliothis Armiger. From two to seven broods a year are produced. The farmer always fears the brood that comes when his corn is in the silking stage, because this is the brood that causes the most injury to the ears. They eat the kernels near the tip, forming a friendly alliance with fungus and ear rot, by opening the way for the development of these diseases later. Farmers have found deep fall plowing to be effective in controlling the ear worm.

The worms are easily recognized by their yellowish to brownish colored bodies that are streaked with gray and white stripes. When the worm is mature it is about two inches long.

GRANS GO UP ON REPORT U. S. WILL ASSIST FARMERS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A decided change in sentiment came over the grain trade yesterday. Fears of damage to the wheat crop in the southern hemisphere and a statement by Gov. McCreary of Indiana, after a conference with the War Finance Corporation, that it is needed by farmers to hold their corn and wheat, led to general buying and a sharp advance. Wheat closed 2 1/2¢ higher. Corn 1 1/2¢, oats 1/2¢, and rye 1/2¢.

Early news developments were rather bullish, but the undertone was firm and at no time were prices more than fractionally under the close of the previous day. On the dip there was free buying by strong commission houses and around 2:10 for May on the way up houses with eastern connections took the buying side. Many of 120 pft. element were bullish and bought freely in the corn and wheat markets. A break of 2 1/2¢ in Santa Fe, Argentina, a break of 2 1/2¢ in Buenos Aires and a break of 2 1/2¢ in Buenos Aires being ignored.

Corn Demand Strong.

The McCreary statement, combined with an excellent demand for cash corn and a limited country offerings, brought in more outside buying than for some time. Bulk of the demand was in buying December and selling May in the reverse, but there was some buying of May credited to leading local traders, who have been collecting bullish for some time. Heavyweight grain in the sample values sold readily at full prices as compared with the December.

Eye led the advance in all grains, the market showing the effect of the recent heavy buying by houses with seaboard connections. Offerings were rather large and No. 2 on track sold at 1 1/2¢ over December. No export business was confirmed by the seaboard.

Provisions Prices Up.

A better demand for cash and a higher price for hogs at the yards and a local buying on provisions and with prices moved up and around about the white ribs and unchanged to 2 1/2¢ lower. Sales of 100,000 lbs leaf lard were made at 5 1/2¢. Prices follow:

TRIO OF 'INDUSTRY'
CAPTAINS' TAKE
OPTIMISTIC VIEW

BY O. A. MATHER.

Three of America's best known "captains of industry" yesterday on different occasions made public expressions of their optimism regarding the present situation of the country's business and its future. These men were E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, Horace S. Wilkinson, chairman of the Crucible Steel company, and S. M. McLaughlin, president of the Baldwin locomotive works.

The expressions of these men came from mid-point optimism tempered with warnings on the part of Mr. Gary, Mr. Wilkinson and Mr. McLaughlin. But the real significance is that all three held the same general view and differed only in the degree of optimism. Mr. Gary spoke at the semi-annual meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute, of which he is president. Mr. Wilkinson addressed stockholders of his company at their annual meeting. Mr. McLaughlin simply reviewed his company's situation.

Steady Improvement Gary Says. Mr. Gary said it seemed to be generally conceded that business conditions throughout the country in the last six months have been steadily improving. He stated the steel industry's volume of business has more than doubled in the last three months, but that profits have been little or nothing due to high costs and low prices.

Even though we have now passed the most critical period in our recovery," he said in reviewing the general outlook. "I still think we would not be warranted in concluding we have arrived at the point where we can with certainty expect the exact time when there will be a return to a normal financial, commercial and industrial basis."

Crucible Steel Prosperous. Mr. Wilkinson stated that the Crucible Steel company is in the best condition in its history and never so rich as now. He said he believed the company's business will become normal as soon as the general business of the country becomes normal.

Mr. McLaughlin said the Baldwin Locomotive Works is experiencing better business than there is 40 per cent of capacity on the order books, that the company will go into the new year with the same percentage of business as it had at the end of last year. More business was received in October than in any month since the war. The company earned its dividends for the full year.

The Carnegie Steel company yesterday increased furnace production in the Mahoning valley to over one-third of normal, while the Shenango works continued to operate at 75 per cent of capacity.

The steel industry is encouraged by large inquiries for rails already in the market or expected in the near future from eastern roads. The New York Central has increased its inquiry to about 200,000 tons and the Norfolk and Western is expected to require 150,000 tons. The Pennsylvania is expected to require 150,000 tons and the Philadelphia and Reading is figuring on 200,000 tons.

General Motors Building.

J. H. Hooper, 111-113 The General Motors Building corporation was formed to erect a building in Detroit to house the General Motors corporation's general offices and showrooms and those of its subsidiaries. It is issuing $10,000,000 of 6 percent serial bonds secured by a closed first mortgage on the building, the cost of which, with the appraised value of the land, is given at $20,740,000. The General Motors Building, which owns and controls the building corporation, has agreed to pay the principal, after paying all operating expenses, to pay principal and interest charges on bonds during each successive year. The claim on General Motors for this rental is an operating cost and as such takes precedence over all dividends. The bonds mature serially Nov. 1, 1922-48. The borrower must make 300 monthly payments of approximately $5,000 each to provide funds for interest and maturity payments. The bonds are a sound investment. On account of the steady amortization of the loan, the borrower's maturity dates offer the greater security.

A Good Newspaper That's Better On Saturday

IT TAKES more than just news to make a good newspaper. More important than the news itself is its reliability, its honesty, and its regard for the public welfare. It takes more than mere features to make a good newspaper.

Each feature must be a good feature, informative, amusing, instructive or entertaining. Each must have a positive appeal to a great number of a vast reader audience.

Jealous editorial watchfulness must scan every line of news, weigh each feature. High journalistic skill must be employed to gather and write the news and features.

All these things are done to make the EVENING AMERICAN a good newspaper.

Its news is truthful and well written. Its features are interesting. Its humor is clean and wholesome. Its editorial expression is sane and constructive.

Its full measure of store news serves its public faithfully as a guide to prices and values. In every department by which a newspaper is judged, the EVENING AMERICAN is a good newspaper.

And its goodness on five days of the week is even greater on Saturdays, when five sterling sections are combined to make up Chicago's favorite "week-end" newspaper.

HOW SPA
'RED TRI
WORLDSacco-Vanz
Told by T

How did the Sacco murder trial in Massachusetts suddenly turn into an international sensation? Why were demonstrations held in the streets of Paris and London? Why were general strikes called in Spain, Italy, and Peru? Why were boycotts of American goods proclaimed throughout the world? Why are protest meetings being held throughout the United States?

All this in the name of two Italian labor leaders, Sacco and Vanzetti, a group of young men, and a movement in an obscure town. The Third International is behind it now, day begins the story, growth of this new movement.
